No. 793-T.-16.—The following is published for general information :—

No. 793-T.-16, dated 6th August 1917.

RESOLUTION—By the Railway Board.

Amendments in Chapters II and V, Part I, and in Chapters II and III and Schedule I, Part II, of the General Rules of 1906, for working open lines of Railway.

It has been represented to the Railway Board that the word "outermost" should be inserted before the words "facing points" in Rules 44 (c), 109 (c) (iii) and 110 of the General Rules for working open lines of railway so as to accord with the wording of General Rule I (33) (b) (3), and the Railway Board consider that this amendment in the rules is necessary.

2. In Government of India, Public Works Department, Resolution No. 1424-21 R., dated the 8th April 1879, it was ruled that parties of civil prisoners other than insane, violent or dangerous prisoners, and their guards, when exceeding three in number, inclusive of the escort, were to be despatched by rail in reserved compartments only. This decision was also embodied as rule 6 (2) in Chapter II, Part II, of the Open Line General Rules of 1906.

3. As the Railway Board are satisfied that compliance with this rule places an unnecessary burden on the Police Department, they have decided that the rule should be altered so as to allow parties up to five in number, inclusive of the escort, to travel in an unreserved compartment. But they consider that for parties in excess of five the police should arrange to reserve accommodation on all occasions.

4. Since the issue of Railway Board's Resolution No. 886 T., dated the 24th June 1915, certain further amendments have become necessary in the revised rules regulating the packing and carriage by railway in India of dangerous goods, other than explosives, which were promulgated with Railway Board's Resolution No. 1025 R. T., dated the 10th June 1912.

5. In exercise, therefore, of the powers conferred by the Notification of the Government of India in the Department of Commerce and Industry No. 801, dated the 24th March 1905, the Railway Board sanction under section 47, sub-section (3), of the Indian Railways Act, 1890 (IX of 1890), the adoption by the administrations of all lines of railway in British India administered by the Government and for the time being used for the public carriage of passengers, animals and goods, of the amendments specified in the annexure hereto, to the General Rules of 1906 for working open lines of railway.

6. The Railway Board also desire that the said amendments may be brought to the notice of the administrations of the several railways not administered by the Government and that the Agents of those railways may be invited to submit a formal application for the adoption of the said amendments on their respective lines.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution, with the accompanying amendments, be published under a notification in Part I of the Gazette of India, as required by section 47, sub-section (3), of the Indian Railways Act, 1890 (IX of 1890), and that a copy thereof be kept open for inspection at railway stations as directed by sub-section (6) of the same section; also that a copy of this Resolution and of its enclosure be communicated to the Local Governments* and Administrations and to the Officers noted on the margin for information.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
11th August 1917.

Burma.—During the week good rain was general throughout the Province. Tavoy reports over 15 inches. In the dry zone of Upper Burma the week's rain was satisfactory. Agricultural operations for winter rice are progressing normally in Lower Burma and in irrigated tracts of Upper Burma. Recent rains have generally improved prospects in Upper Burma. The condition of standing crops is satisfactory. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen to Rs. 98 per hundred baskets and is nearly rupees twenty below the normal rate. The market for white rice is weak.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Harvesting of autumn rice is approaching completion. Cutting of jute, manufacture of tea and transplantation of winter rice continue. The outturn of autumn rice and jute is fair to good and of tea good. Prospects of other crops are good. Cattle disease is reported from six districts. The price of common rice shows very little change.

Bengal.—During the week the rainfall was almost general throughout the Province. The fall was not evenly distributed, being excessive in parts of the Presidency, Burdwan and Dacca divisions and rather scanty in most parts of the Rajshahi division where the transplantation of winter rice and steeping and washing of jute have been retarded somewhat in consequence. Harvesting of autumn paddy and jute is in full swing. Weeding of winter paddy has commenced in places. The condition and prospects of jute and other standing crops are reported to be fairly good. Damage to the jute crop either by heavy rain, flood or insect-pests is reported from the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Murshidabad, Midnapore, Hooghly, Howrah, Pabna and Faridpur districts, but nowhere is the damage serious. Fodder is dear only in parts of the 24-Parganas and Mymensingh. The average price of common rice has again fallen slightly as compared with that of the previous week.

Bihar and Orissa.—The rainfall during the week was general over the Province, the fall being heavy in parts of Orissa and light to moderate in Bihar and Chota Nagpur. Weeding of autumn crops continues. Transplantation of paddy is going on. Harvesting of jute has commenced. Autumn crops have been considerably damaged by the recent floods in Patna and Gaya. Some damage has also been caused in parts of Shahabad, Monghyr and Bhagalpur. The price of common rice has risen in five districts, fallen in three and remained stationary in the remaining districts as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from sixteen districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

*The weekly report on scarcity in the Kolhan (Government Estate of Singhbhum and on distress in the Chitka tracts of Puri is as follows:—*The number of persons on test works in Singhbhum was 271 and in Puri 236. The average price was 8½ seers per rupee in Singhbhum and 10½ seers per rupee in Puri. The distress is moderate and relief measures are sufficient. The public health is good. The physical condition of workers is satisfactory.

United Provinces.—During the week rain has again been general throughout the Provinces and a break is needed in the Himalayan and Bundelkhand districts. Cutting and manufacture of indigo are in progress in Bulandshahr and Aligarh. Weeding of autumn crops, transplantation of rice and preparation of fields for spring crops are in progress but in a few places especially in Bundelkhand excessive and continuous rainfall has retarded weeding and sowing operations and damaged standing crops which have also suffered slightly from floods in Saharanpur, Benares and Ballia. Otherwise standing crops are generally flourishing and prospects are good. Cattle disease has not decreased but the condition of agricultural stock is for the most part satisfactory. Fodder and water are ample. Markets are well stocked. Prices are tending to fall.

Punjab.—Heavy rain was received in the west and in parts of the submontane tracts and light to moderate elsewhere. It was generally sufficient and beneficial for sowing and for standing crops. Sowing of rice, maize and millets continues and is normal. The condition of sugarcane, cotton and other standing crops is generally good but in parts of a few districts crops on low lands have been damaged slightly by excessive rains and floods. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are sufficient. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Prices are stationary and generally range between normal and warning rates. Price of wheat:—Lahore and Rawalpindi 9½ and Ferozepore, Lyallpur and Ambala 10 seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—During the week rain fell throughout the Province. Water and fodder are sufficient. The condition of cattle is generally good. Prospects of the autumn crops are average. Maize and chari are being sown. The public health is good. The price of wheat in Peshawar is 9½ and in Dera Ismail Khan 10½ seers

Jammu.—Abundant rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8½ to 12 and maize from 12 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. There is no cattle disease. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was good. Standing crops are in fair condition. Rain is badly needed. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—During the week good and general rain fell throughout Rajputana and Ajmer-Merwara. The principal falls were 9 inches 20 cents in Tonk, 6 inches 40 cents in Marwar, 6 inches 25 cents in Bharatpur and 5 inches 73 cents in Banswara. The weather is cloudy and seasonable. Standing crops are in good condition and are being weeded. Sowings are proceeding. Some damage by insects and rain has been reported from Marwar, Kotah, Jhalawar and Tonk. The condition of agricultural stock is fair to good. Water and fodder are ample. Prices continue to fall except in Marwar and Bharatpur where they are rising.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was heavy in Gwalior and general elsewhere. The principal falls were over 5 inches in Bundelkhand, over 2 inches in Indore City, Rutlam, Jaora, Jhabua, Dhar and Alirajpur and over 1 inch in Kannod, Jobat and Manpur. The fall was insufficient in parts of the Dhar and Barwani States. Autumn crops are being weeded except in Gwalior and Bundelkhand where agricultural operations have been suspended owing to heavy rains. Lands for spring crops are being prepared in the Southern States. Standing crops are in fair to good condition. Damage by insects is reported from some places in the Gwalior State and by continuous rains in the Bhopal Agency. Agricultural stock is in good condition except for some cattle disease. The fodder supply is sufficient. Prices are high in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—Heavy rain fell in most of the northern and eastern districts, causing some damage in places particularly to the juar crop. Otherwise the condition of standing crops is good. Agricultural operations have been retarded owing to continuous rain in a few districts where a break is necessary. Transplantation of rice continues and weeding is in progress. Fodder is ample and the condition of agricultural stock is good. Variation in prices is unimportant.

Feudatory States.—Good rain was received. Crops are flourishing.

Bombay.—Good rain fell during the week in Sind, Gujarat, Konkan and West Deccan. Elsewhere the fall was deficient. More rain is needed for sowing which has been retarded in parts of East Deccan and the Karnatak. Standing crops have been damaged slightly by rats and grasshoppers in one Division of Thar and Parkar and by insects in two talukas of the Upper Sind Frontier, Surat and parts of Palanpur. They are withering in parts of Bijapur and East Deccan and thriving elsewhere. The fodder supply is adequate except in parts of Nasik, four talukas of East Khandesh and two talukas of Ahmadnagar. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Dharwar. Prices of food grains have risen slightly in the Karnatak and are generally steady elsewhere.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was slight to fair. The average fall was 91 cents. The highest fall was 5 inches 33 cents in the Mahbubabad taluka. Autumn crops are generally in fair to good condition and are being weeded. They have suffered from want of rain in parts of the Gulbarga and Raichur districts and from excessive rain in parts of the Nalgonda and Karimnagar districts. Early rice is being sown. Standing crops are in good condition. Lands for spring crops are being prepared. Cattle disease is reported from thirteen talukas. Prices of grains are high and steady. The highest price of juar in districts is 8 seers per rupee in Parbhani, Nander, Bidar and Warangal and the lowest 16 seers per rupee in Bir.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was light to fair. The price of rice and ragi has risen in Kolar and Shimoga and fallen in Tumkur and that of ragi has risen in Mysore. Markets are well supplied. Ploughing, transplanting and sowing operations for paddy and ragi are in progress in parts. Standing crops are in fair condition. Prospects of the season are generally good but more rain is needed in the greater part of the state. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Rainfall 2 inches 13 cents. Ploughing for and transplantation of rice continue. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall was very heavy in South Kanara, heavy in Salem, Tanjore, Pudukottai, Malabar and Cochin, good in Circars, South Arcot, Ohittor, North Arcot, Trichinopoly, Madurai, Ramnad and the Nilgiris, nil in Bellary and Sandur and light to fair elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but rain are required in parts of eight districts. Harvesting of paddy and dry crops is proceeding normally with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water-supply is insufficient in parts of Ganjam, Bellary, Anantapur, Carnatic except Chingleput, Central and South. Pasture is insufficient in four districts and in parts of five others. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

TARIFF VALUATION OF SUGAR.

The following statement shows in respect of each of the descriptions of sugar distinguished in the Tariff Schedule II (excepting molasses and all other kinds of sugar), first, the total imports into India in the month of July 1917, and the average value per cwt. as calculated on the returns received from the Customs Houses; and, secondly, a running total showing the total imports into India since the beginning of the year (1st October to 30th September) and the average net value per cwt. so far established. It is published in conformity with the procedure laid down in Customs Circular No. V of 1911, in order to enable merchants to compute the probable rate of duty for the year 1918 :—

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

CALCUTTA, AUGUST 13, 1917.

Final General Memorandum on the WHEAT CROP of 1916-17.

This memorandum is based on returns of finally revised acreage and outturn of the wheat crop of the season 1916-17, received from local authorities, and relates to 98·5 per cent of the total wheat area in India. The returns, therefore, cover practically all the important wheat growing areas in India.

The total area is 32,940,000 acres as against 30,320,000 acres last year, or an increase of nearly 9 per cent. The total yield is estimated at 10,158,000 tons (47,404,000 quarters of 480 lbs each) as against 8,652,000 tons (40,876,000 quarters) last year, or an increase of 17 per cent. The figures of both area and yield are the highest on record.

The detailed figures are as follows :—

(1) Area (in thousand acres)

Total . . . . .	10,158	8,653	+ 1,505	691	639

It will be seen that the present estimate of yield as against the final figures of last year shows an increase of 128 per cent in Rajputana, 68 per cent in Hyderabad, 20 per cent in the Central Provinces and Berar, 18 per cent in the Punjab, 13 per cent in the United Provinces and the North-West Frontier Province each, and 3 per cent in Bombay and Bihar and Orissa each. Sind alone shows a decrease of 15 per cent.

In addition to the areas for which particulars are given above, the crop is grown in certain other tracts (namely Burma, Madras, Manipur Pargana, and the Kashmir State) for which no reports are made, and the average area so grown for the last five years has been about 442,000 acres. An addition of approximately 1·3 per cent or 136,000 tons should be made to the total estimated yield on this account.

Chart—The chart below illustrates the present estimates of area and yield as compared with those of the preceding nine years :—

	July, 1914 (outbreak of war)	June, 1915	June, 1916	June, 1917
	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	s. d.
United States Atlantic Ports to United Kingdom	2 0	...	11 0	230 0
River Plate to United Kingdom	11 4½	45 0	155 0	160 0
Australia to United Kingdom	17 0	...	110 0	...
Karachi to Liverpool . . .	10 0	48 0	80 0	250 0

It will be seen that, as compared with this time last year, freights from the United States Atlantic Ports have risen by 1,900 per cent, from India (Karachi) by 212 per cent, and from the Argentine (River Plate) by 3 per cent.

Wheat crop in foreign Countries.—From the latest information published by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, it appears that vegetation in France, Great Britain, and Italy, previously so backward, has been able to make up the greater part of the time lost owing to the rigours of the earlier months of 1917. Spring sowings have almost everywhere been carried out under favourable conditions, and the young plants are generally reported to be healthy and vigorous. In Northern and Central Europe the drawbacks resulting from the length and severity of the winter are still seriously felt. In the greater part of European and Asiatic Russia temperature below the normal has hitherto prevailed, but the situation appears to be favourable on the whole, and an area under spring crops equal to that of last year is expected. In Canada spring sowing has been practically finished, and the area under wheat compares favourably with that of 1916. In the United States of America, although the winter crops suffered injury from the severity of the season and violent winds to such an extent as to cause the abandonment of nearly one-third of the area sown with wheat, the recent weather has been so favourable that the wheat crop, as a whole, promises a larger yield than that of last year. The estimates of area and yield of the principal countries are given below, as far as figures are available.

From unofficial sources, it appears that the new wheat (1917-18) crop in the Argentine is making excellent growth on a very large acreage, and the area is estimated at 19,700,000 acres—the highest on record. In Australia reports of agricultural prospects for the year 1917-18 are mostly favourable.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

POLITICAL.

No. 2111.

Simla, the 20th August, 1917.

The following announcement is being made this day by the Secretary of State for India in the House of Commons and is published for general information :

Announcement by the Secretary of State for India.

The policy of His Majesty's Government, with which the Government of India are in complete accord, is that of the increasing association of Indians in every branch of the administration and the gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in India as an integral part of the British Empire. They have decided that substantial steps in this direction should be taken as soon as possible, and that it is of the highest importance as a preliminary to considering what these steps should be that there should be a free and informal exchange of opinion between those in authority at home and in India. His Majesty's Government have accordingly decided, with His Majesty's approval, that I should accept the Viceroy's invitation to proceed to India to discuss these matters with the Viceroy and the Government of India, to consider with the Viceroy the views of Local Governments, and to receive with him the suggestions of representative bodies and others.

I would add that progress in this policy can only be achieved by successive stages. The British Government and the Government of India on whom the responsibility lies for the welfare and advancement of the Indian peoples must be judges of the time and measure of each advance, and they must be guided by the co-operation received from those upon whom new opportunities of service will thus be conferred and by the extent to which it is found that confidence can be reposed in their sense of responsibility.

Ample opportunity will be afforded for public discussion of the proposals which will be submitted in due course to Parliament.

J. H. DU BOULAY,

Secretary to the Government of India.

No. 1367.—The following telegram has been received from the Secretary of State for India and is published for general information :

Begins. The Secretary of State for India has announced in House of Commons the decision of His Majesty's Government to remove bar which has hitherto precluded admission of Indians to commissioned rank in His Majesty's Army and steps are accordingly being taken respecting grant of commissions to nine Indian officers belonging to Native Indian Land Forces who have served in field in present war and whom Government of India recommended for this honour in recognition of their services. Their names will be notified in London Gazette and in same Gazette they will be posted to Indian Army.

The Secretary of State and Government of India are discussing the general conditions under which Indians should in future be eligible for commissions. In due course the Army Council will be consulted with a view to introduction of a carefully considered scheme to provide for the selection of candidates and for training them in important duties which will devolve upon them. Ends.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
18th August 1917.

Burma.—During the week moderate rain was general throughout the Province. Akyab reports over 9 inches and Sandoway and Insein over 7 inches. In Upper Burma Shwobo and Pakokku hill tracts report over 6 inches and Bhamo over 5 inches. Elsewhere the rainfall was satisfactory. Agricultural operations for winter rice are proceeding normally in Lower Burma and in irrigated tracts of Upper Burma. Cultivation of juar, beans, groundnut and sesamum continues. Standing crops are generally in good condition. Livestock is healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen further to Rs. 97 per hundred baskets and is much below normal. The market for white rice is quiet.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Harvesting of autumn rice has been nearly finished. Cutting of jute, manufacture of tea and transplantation of winter rice continue. The outturn of autumn rice is good and that of jute and tea is fair to good. Prospects of winter rice, sugarcane and cotton are fair to good. Cattle disease is reported from four districts. The price of common rice is practically unchanged.

Bengal.—During the week light to moderate rainfall was general throughout the Province. Harvesting of autumn paddy and jute continues briskly. Transplantation of winter paddy is approaching completion. Weeding is in progress. Standing crops are doing well except in a few places where they have been affected by insect pests, heavy rainfall or floods. The flood water is reported to be going down and in places the affected areas are being replanted with winter rice. Cattle disease is reported from eight districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen by about 0.25 per cent as compared with that of the previous week.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week the rainfall was general over the Province, the fall being mostly light to moderate. Weeding of autumn crops and harvesting of jute continue. Transplantation of paddy is going on but more rain is required for the purpose in parts of Darbhanga, Bhagalpur, Patna and Angul. Standing crops are doing well except in the flood affected areas. The price of common rice has fallen in four districts and remained stationary in the remaining districts as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder is sufficient except in parts of Patna and Cuttack. Cattle disease is reported from thirteen districts. Test works have been closed in Singhbhum and Puri. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—The rainfall has been deficient in the western submontane districts and Upper Doab. More rain is urgently required in Bijnor, Moradabad, Muzaffarnagar, Meerut, Sitapur and Bahraich while in certain Himalayan and Bundelkhand districts a break is necessary. Weeding of summer and ploughing of fields for winter crops continue. In some districts excessive rain has caused slight damage to standing crops and interfered with agricultural operations. Otherwise standing crops are doing well and prospects are satisfactory. Cattle disease continues but the condition of agricultural stock is generally satisfactory. Fodder and water are sufficient and markets full. Prices are fluctuating.

Punjab.—During the week fairly heavy rain has fallen in parts of the submontane tracts and light or moderate elsewhere. The fall is generally sufficient for the present and has been useful for autumn crops. Sowings of rice, millets and maize continue in some districts and are normal. Sugarcane, cotton and other standing crops are generally in good condition but crops on low lands have been damaged by heavy rains and floods in a few districts. Damage to millets and maize by insects is also reported from three districts. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are sufficient. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Prices are generally stationary but have fallen slightly in some districts. They range generally between normal and warning rates. Price of wheat:—Rawalpindi 9½, Lahore 9½, Lyallpur 9½, and Ambala and Ferozepore 10 seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—During the week rain fell throughout the Province. Fodder and water are sufficient. The condition of cattle is generally good. Prospects of autumn crops are average. Sowings of makhi, juar and bajra are in progress in Peshawar. The public health is good. The price of wheat in Peshawar is 9½ and in Dera Ismail Khan 10, seers per rupee.

Jammu.—Abundant rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 12 and maize from 12 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. There is no cattle disease. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was good in Mozaffarabad and insignificant elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair condition. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—The rainfall during the week was general. The weather is cloudy. Standing crops are in good condition but some damage has been done to them by excessive rain. The condition of cattle is fair to good. Water and fodder are ample. Prices are falling slightly.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was general. The principal falls were over 5 inches in Bundelkhand, over 8 inches in Garot, over 2 inches in Alwar and over 1 inch in Mehidpur, Kannod, Jhabua and Jobat. The fall was insufficient in parts of the Dhar and Barwani States. Autumn crops are being weeded except in Gwalior and Bundelkhand where agricultural operations have been suspended owing to heavy rains. Lands for spring crops are being prepared in the Southern States. Standing crops are in fair to good condition. Damage by insects and rats is reported from some places in the Gwalior and Dewas States and by continuous rains in the Bhopal Agency. Agricultural stock is in good condition except for some cattle disease. The fodder supply is sufficient. Prices are high in Bhopal and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—During the week light to moderate showers were received all over the Provinces. More rain is required in the Berar division and Wardha. Excessive rain has slightly damaged the crops in parts of a few districts. Transplantation, weeding and thinning of rice are proceeding. Preparation of land for the sowing of spring crops is in progress in several districts. Standing crops are generally in good condition and prospects are favourable. There is no deficiency of fodder. Cattle are in good condition. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly.

Feudatory States.—Moderate to heavy rain fell in the States. The condition of crops is satisfactory.

Bombay.—Fair to good rain was received during the week throughout the Presidency but more rain is still needed for standing crops which are withering in parts of Bijapur, Belgaum, East Deccan and Kolhapur. Elsewhere the crops are in good condition except for slight damage by rats and grasshoppers in three talukas of Thar and Parkar and in parts of Kathiawar and Palanpur. The fodder supply is adequate except in parts of Khandesh, Nasik and Ahmednagar. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Dharwar. Prices of food grains are generally steady.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was slight to fair. The average fall was 79 cents. Autumn crops are being weeded and are generally in fair to good condition except in parts where they need rain. Early rice crop is in fair to good condition. Sowings continue. Lands for spring crops are being prepared. Cattle disease prevails in eleven talukas. Prices of grains are high and steady. The highest price of juar in districts is 7 seers per rupee in Bidar and the lowest 16 seers per rupee in Bir and Raichur.

Mysore. The rainfall during the week was good. The price of rice has risen in Tumkur and Shimoga and that of ragi has risen in Shimoga and fallen in Kolar. Markets are well supplied. Ploughing, transplantation and sowing operations for paddy and ragi are in progress in parts. Standing crops are in good condition. Prospects of the season are generally good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Rainfall 7 inches 7 cents. Ploughing for and transplantation of rice continue. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was heavy in Anantapur, North Arcot, Salem, Tanjore, Pudukkottai, Ramnad, South Kanara, and the Nilgiris fair in Banganapalle and Madras and good elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but rain is required in parts of five districts. Harvesting of paddy and dry crops is proceeding normally with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy and dry crops are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water-supply is insufficient in parts of Ganjam, Bellary, Anantapur, Nellore, South Arcot, Central and South except Tanjore. Pasture is insufficient in three districts and in parts of five others. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

No. 2111.

Simla, the 20th August, 1917.

The following announcement is being made this day by the Secretary of State for India in the House of Commons and is published for general information :

Announcement by the Secretary of State for India.

The policy of His Majesty's Government, with which the Government of India are in complete accord, is that of the increasing association of Indians in every branch of the administration and the gradual development of self-governing institutions with a view to the progressive realization of responsible Government in India as an integral part of the British Empire. They have decided that substantial steps in this direction should be taken as soon as possible, and that it is of the highest importance, as a preliminary to considering what these steps should be, that there should be a free and informal exchange of opinion between those in authority at home and in India. His Majesty's Government have accordingly decided, with His Majesty's approval, that I should accept the Viceroy's invitation to proceed to India to discuss these matters with the Viceroy and the Government of India, to consider with the Viceroy the views of Local Governments, and to receive with him the suggestions of representative bodies and others.

I would add that progress in this policy can only be achieved by successive stages. The British Government and the Government of India on whom the responsibility lies for the welfare and advancement of the Indian peoples must be judges of the time and measure of each advance, and they must be guided by the co-operation received from those upon whom new opportunities of service will thus be conferred and by the extent to which it is found that confidence can be reposed in their sense of responsibility.

Ample opportunity will be afforded for public discussion of the proposals, which will be submitted in due course to Parliament.

J. H. DUBOULAY,
Secretary to the Govt. of India.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

August 20, 1917.

Director of Statistics

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

CALCUTTA, AUGUST 20, 1917.

First COTTON Forecast, 1917-18.

This forecast is based upon reports on the condition of the crop at the end of July or early August. They relate, as will be seen below, not to the entire cotton area, but to 77 per cent of the total, as sowings, especially of the late crop, have in many places not yet commenced. No attempt has been made at this stage to estimate the probable outturn.

The returns show that an area of 13,263,000 acres has been sown this year as against 12,351,000 acres on this date last year, an increase of 7 per cent.

The increase, as against last year, occurs in the Punjab (49 per cent), Rajputana (39 per cent), Ajmer-Merwara (32 per cent), North-West Frontier Province (12 per cent), Burma (10 per cent), the Central Provinces and Berar and the United Provinces (5 per cent each), Hyderabad (4 per cent), and Central India (3 per cent). On the other hand, Mysore shows a decrease of 36 per cent, Madras 12 per cent, Bombay 2 per cent, and Bengal 1 per cent.

Climatic conditions at sowing time have been favourable, and the present condition and prospects of the standing crop are reported to be good, except in parts of the Bombay Deccan, Madras, Burma, Eastern Bengal, and Mysore. In these tracts sowings have been adversely affected by deficient rainfall.

Detailed figures for the provinces and States are as follows:

(a) Revised figure

The provincial reports are summarised below:—

Bombay (36.2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The report relates only to the early crop of the Deccan (7.7 per cent), which up to the 1st August showed 1,453,000 acres (3,000 acres being in the Native States), or a decrease of about 2 per cent as compared with the area reported at the corresponding date last year. In Khandesh, where the crop is mainly grown, high prices fetched by the crop last year coupled with favourable sowing rain induced larger cultivation in the east; elsewhere insufficiency of sowing rain curtailed the area and delayed sowings by about a month, which still continue in the south. Seedlings are generally doing well at present in Khandesh, but not so elsewhere for want of rain which is largely in defect everywhere.

Central Provinces and Berar (30.4 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is estimated at 4,496,000 acres (3,055,000 acres being in Berar) as against 4,285,000 acres (2,950,000 acres in Berar) estimated at this date last year, or an increase of 5 per cent. Moderate to heavy rain was received in June and July all over the province, and the rainfall was generally well distributed and sufficient for agricultural purposes. The climatic conditions at sowing time were generally favourable, but operations were slightly impeded owing to excessive rain in parts of Damoh, Seoni, Nimar, Nagpur, Bilaspur, Raipur, and Buldana. Germination was generally good. A little re-sowing was, however, necessary in parts of Seoni, Hoshangabad, Nimar, Chhindwara, Wardha, Nagpur, Bhandara, and Berar districts. The condition of the crop is generally satisfactory at present, and prospects are so far favourable.

Madras (10.9 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The area sown up to date is reported to be 106,000 acres as compared with 120,000 acres estimated at this date last year, or a decrease of 12 per cent. The south-west monsoon has given little rain as yet in Kurnool, and there is therefore a large falling-off in the early sowings of 'Northern' cotton. This variety, however, constitutes only some 10 per cent of the total crop, and it is now too early to say anything about the main crop sowings. The figures for 'Salams' and 'Tinnevellys' represent old crop still standing from which some later pickings will be obtained.

Punjab (7.2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown is estimated at 1,387,000 acres (100,000 acres being in the Native States), which is 49 per cent above the area reported at this date last year. The increase is attributed to favourable climatic conditions and to high prices obtained last year. The Lahore division shows an advance of 60 per cent. Multan 51 per cent, Amballa 44 per cent, and Jullundur and Rawalpindi 34 per cent each. Owing to the failure of winter rains the outlook for the cotton crop remained gloomy till the first week of April. Thereafter the weather was abnormally wet, and fairly heavy rain, sometimes accompanied by hailstorms, has fallen throughout the province at intervals till the date of report (9th August). The rainfall in June was much above the normal except in a few districts in the west of the province. Climatic conditions were therefore very favourable for sowings, and the supply of water from canals was generally sufficient. The rains in July, specially the heavy showers received in the south-east and submontane tracts in the last week of that month, were very beneficial to the standing crop which is in good condition. More rain is now wanted, particularly in the central and western tracts.

United Provinces (5·5 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area is estimated at 1,206,000 acres as against 1,150,000 acres estimated at this time last year, or an increase of 5 per cent. The supply of water in canals during April and May was ample, and a larger area was sown with cotton in the canal irrigated tracts than in the previous year. The rainfall throughout May was above normal and facilitated preparation of the ground. By the end of June sufficient rain was received everywhere except in the Meerut and Agra divisions. Rainfall was general throughout the province in the first week of July, and in the fourth week of that month all districts received heavy rain. Germination is reported to have been satisfactory, and the prospects of the crop are so far favourable.

Burma (1 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area is estimated at 229,000 acres, which is 10 per cent above the area estimated at the corresponding date last year. Good prices obtained last year have encouraged an expansion of the area, Sagaing, Thayetmyo, Meiktila, and Lower Chindwin showing important increases, in spite of late sowings on account of a shortage of early rains. Owing to the general shortage of rain in Upper Burma prospects are uncertain, although the general condition of the standing crop is still fair.

Bihar and Orissa (0·4 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown up to date with both early and late cotton is estimated at 67,000 acres, the same as estimated at this date last year. Sowings of the early crop began in normal time and its present condition is reported to be generally good. Fair progress has been made with the sowings of the late crop. In Cuttack, Balasore, and Angul sowings have not yet begun. The weather conditions for both the early and the late crops have so far been generally favourable.

Bengal (0·3 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The area sown up to date with both early and late cotton is reported to be 73,000 acres, which is 1 per cent below the area estimated at this date last year. The weather has been generally favourable to both the early and the late crops from the sowing up to the date of report (8th August). In the Chittagong Hill Tracts, however, long continued drought prevailed from the outset, and the germination has therefore been bad and the present condition of the plants in that district is unsatisfactory.

North-West Frontier Province (0·2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown up to the end of July is estimated at 27,000 acres, which is 12 per cent above the area reported at this date last year. The increase is mainly confined to the Peshawar district. The rainfall was average or above the average in March everywhere except Hazara, where it was below the average. In April and May the rainfall was above the average in Hazara but, with the exception of certain stations, generally below the average elsewhere.

Assam (0·2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The area is estimated at 32,000 acres, the same as last year. The weather was favourable and the prospects of the crop are good, except in Nowgong where drought prevailed at the time of sowing.

Ajmer-Merwara (0·2 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The area is estimated at 29,000 acres (Ajmer 19,400, Kekri 400, and Merwara 9,400 acres) against 22,000 acres reported at this date last year, or an increase of 32 per cent. Prospects are reported to be good.

Hyderabad (14·7 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area under the early crop is reported to be 2,610,000 acres, which is 4 per cent above the area estimated at this date last year. The detailed figures, which are, however, liable to correction on receipt of actual figures for certain talukas, are as follows:—

The condition of the crop is generally fair to good, and if the season continues favourable, there is every hope of the crop being normal.

Central India (6 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area reported amounts to 1,237,000 acres, which is 3 per cent above the area reported at this date last year. The detailed figures are as follows:—

Mysore (0.5 per cent of the total area under cotton in India).—The total area sown up to date amounts to 9,000 acres as against 14,000 acres estimated at this date last year. The decrease is attributed to insufficiency of rainfall owing to which sowing did not commence in many talukas at the date of report (4th August). The district details are as follows :—

Chart.—The chart below illustrates the variations in the preliminary estimates of the last ten years, as compared with those in the final figures :—

Cotton crop in foreign Countries.—The latest information published by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, shows that in the United States of America the area cultivated for cotton in 1917 is 36,037,000 acres as compared with 35,224,000 acres in 1916. In Egypt the weather was variable during May : rather cold and unfavourable in Lower Egypt, and generally more congenial in Upper Egypt in spite of hot winds culminating in a wind-storm on the 19th May, the result of which cannot yet be determined. Water supply was generally sufficient. In Lower and Middle Egypt the crop is late, though looking healthy; in Minia and the South the progress is better and flowering has begun.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

CALCUTTA, AUGUST 20, 1917.

First SUGARCANE Forecast, 1917-18.

This forecast is based on reports received from eight provinces, which contain, on an average, 95·3 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India. Madras (containing 3·8 per cent of the total) has, as usual, been excluded from this forecast; arrangements have, however, been made to include Madras in the first (August) forecast from next year.

The returns show that an area of 2,442,000 acres has been planted with sugarcane this year in the reporting provinces, as against 2,242,000 acres estimated at this time last year, or an increase of 9 per cent.

The present estimate, as compared with that at the corresponding period last year, shows an increase of 24 per cent in the Punjab, 15 per cent in Bombay and Sind, 10 per cent in the United Provinces, and 9 per cent in the Central Provinces and Berar. On the other hand, Bengal and the North-West Frontier Province show a decrease of 6 per cent each. Assam 3 per cent, and Bihar and Orissa 2 per cent.

Seasonal conditions at sowing time were favourable, and prospects of the crop are so far good.

The detailed figures for the provinces are as follows:—

First Forecast, August.

Total . . . . .	2,442,000	2,242,000	+ 200,000

The provincial reports are summarised below:—

United Provinces (54·2 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The area planted is now roughly estimated at 1,342,000 acres as against 1,220,000 acres reported at this time last year, or an increase of 10 per cent. There was sufficient rain in the early months of the year for the preparation of the ground. Both April and May were unusually cool with constant showers. The crop was thus sown under favourable conditions. It got a good start, and so far ample rain has been received during the monsoon period. The prospects of the crop are good, and a fully normal outturn is anticipated. Some damage from floods has recently been reported from the eastern districts, which may affect this estimate for these areas.

Punjab (14·7 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The area estimated at the end of July was 446,000 acres, which is 24 per cent above the estimate made at this time last year. Plentiful rain, good canal supplies, and high prices have caused an increase in sowings. After the first week of April the weather was abnormally wet, and fairly heavy rain, sometimes accompanied by hailstorms, has fallen throughout the province at intervals till the date of report (13th August). The Montgomery district reports an advance in area by cent per cent owing to the extension of irrigation from the Lower Bari Doab Canal. The season has been extremely favourable for the maturing of the crop, which is generally in good condition.

Bihar and Orissa (10·9 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The area planted with sugarcane is now estimated at 265,000 acres as against 270,000 acres reported at this date last year, or a decrease of 2 per cent. The weather conditions have generally been favourable, and the condition of the crop is reported to be good. The districts of Patna, Gaya, and Sambalpur report more than a normal crop, varying from 115 to 133 per cent. Nine districts, namely, Shahabad, Saran, Champaran, Bhagalpore, Purnea, Cuttack, Angul, Ranchi, and Palamanu expect a normal crop. Eight districts report crops between 92 and 96 per cent. Singhbhum reports a crop of 71 per cent. The average outturn for the province works out to 102 per cent of the normal as against a normal crop reported at this time last year.

Bengal (9·2 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The area planted is reported to be 209,000 acres, which is 6 per cent below the area (223,000 acres) reported at this time last year. The weather, though dry at the outset, was generally favourable for planting operations, there being no lack of moisture in the soil. In some places the growth of the crop has been retarded through drought and in some others through untimely and excessive rainfall, but on the whole the season has so far been satisfactory.

Bombay and Sind (2·6 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The information received (up to 1st August) is incomplete. The area so far reported comes to 92,000 acres (30,000 acres being in Native States), which is 15 per cent in excess of the area reported at this time last year. The increase is almost general in the Presidency, and is due partly to high prices obtained for the produce and partly to good water supply in wells and canals on account of the heavy late rains of last year. In Sind the area is almost stationary. The crop is generally flourishing everywhere.

Assam (1·5 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The area planted is reported to be 34,000 acres, which is 3 per cent below the corresponding estimate of last year. The weather at the time of planting was not favourable on account of deficient rain in most districts. The rainfall in May was generally insufficient, but in June and July the weather improved. On the whole, a better outturn is expected than that of last year, the average outturn being at present estimated at 97 per cent of the normal as against 94 per cent at this time last year.

North-West Frontier Province (1·3 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The area sown up to the end of July is estimated at 30,000 acres as against 32,000 acres reported at this time last year. The Revenue Commissioner, however, remarks that the acreage figure in the first forecast of last year was overestimated and that the present acreage is practically the same as returned in the final forecast of that year.

Central Provinces and Berar (0.9 per cent of the total area under sugarcane in British India).—The area planted is estimated at 24,000 acres, which is 9 per cent in excess of that reported at this time last year. Seasonal conditions at sowing time were favourable as there was general rainfall from February to May, and germination was successful. Moderate to heavy rain was received in June and July, and was generally well distributed and sufficient for agricultural purposes. Prospects of the standing crops at present are, on the whole, favourable.

Chart.—The chart below shows the preliminary estimate of area now made with the final figures of the preceding nine years :—

Sugarcane crop in foreign countries.—The latest information published by the International Institute of Agriculture, Rome, is that in Egypt the weather was favourable and water supply ample during May; sprouts are healthy and in good condition.

From unofficial sources it appears that drought is prevailing in Louisiana and that damage to the crop is inevitable unless a general rain ensues. In Cuba harvesting of the old crop continues to make good progress; moderate showers have fallen and new plantings are being made in parts. In Porto Rico there has been sufficient rain over the northern division, but the rest of the island is dry, only scattered showers having been reported. The Hawaiian crop is suffering through lack of moisture.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA

CALCUTTA, AUGUST 21, 1917.

First Forecast, SESAMUM (Til or Jinjili) crop, 1917-18.

This forecast is based upon reports received from eight provinces, which contain, on an average, 77 per cent of the entire area under sesamum in British India. The returns in this forecast, however, exclude estimates for the United Provinces and for the late crops of Bengal and Bihar and Orissa.

A general comparison of the figures is made below with those for the corresponding period of last year. The total area so far reported amounts to 1,877,000 acres as against 1,805,000 acres (revised figure) for the same tracts at this date last year, or an increase of 4 per cent. Details of the area by provinces are as follows:—

First forecast, August

Provinces	1917-18	1916-17	Increase + or Decrease—
	Acres	Acres	Acres
United Provinces (a)
Central Provinces and Berar	657,000	853,000	—196,000
Madras	368,000	301,000	+ 67,000
Bombay and Sind (including Native States)	451,000	320,000	+ 131,000
Bengal	172,000	(b) 171,000	+ 1,000
Bihar and Orissa	10,000	10,000	...
Punjab	210,000	148,000	+ 62,000
Ajmer-Merwara	9,000	2,000	+ 7,000
Total (c)	1,877,000	1,805,000	+ 72,000

Sowing operations were hindered by excessive and continuous rain in parts of the Central Provinces and by deficient rainfall in parts of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal. With these exceptions, the climatic conditions at sowing time have on the whole been favourable, and the present condition and prospects of the crop are generally reported to be good.

The provincial reports are summarised below:—

United Provinces (24·7 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—Sowings of sesamum commenced in places in June, but were retarded by heavy rainfall in July and are still going on. An estimate of the area cannot therefore be given at present. Germination is reported to have been satisfactory.

Central Provinces and Berar (16·9 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area is estimated at 657,000 acres, which is 23 per cent less than the area (853,000 acres) reported at this date last year. Moderate to heavy rain was received in June and July throughout the province, and was generally well distributed and sufficient for agricultural purposes. Conditions at sowing time were, on the whole, favourable, except in parts of Damoh, Mandla, Seoni, Nimar, and Bilaspur, where sowings were somewhat retarded owing to continuous and excessive rainfall. In Wardha there was not sufficient moisture in the ground when sowings were made. Germination was generally successful, but some resowing was necessary in places in Seoni, Nimar, Betul, Wardha, Amraoti, and Yeotmal. Sowings of the late crop did not begin at the date of report (8th August).

Madras (16·2 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area sown up to date is estimated at 368,000 acres, which is 22 per cent in excess of the area reported at the corresponding date of last year. There is a marked increase this year in the Circars and in the Carnatic including North Arcot, in which tracts the early rains have been plentiful. In Chingleput and the Arcots the fall in the price of groundnut partly accounts for the increase in the area under sesamum. In the Deccan there is a decrease, which is attributed to the comparative failure of sowing rains in June and July in Bellary, where the early crop is important.

Bombay and Sind (6·7 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The report relates to estimates made up to 1st August, and this information is incomplete as sowings continued at that date. The total area reported is 451,000 acres (300,000 acres being in the Native States), which is 41 per cent above the area reported at the corresponding date of last year. The increase took place mainly in Gujarat and in Gujarat States including Kathiawar, and is due to favourable sowing rain; elsewhere in the Presidency deficiency of sowing rain and in Sind inadequate water-supply restricted the area. In Gujarat the early crop is generally doing well and the late crop is not yet sown. In the Deccan the crop is in fairly good condition at present in the north and west; in other parts, where sowing was delayed till July for want of rain, the condition of the crop is not good. In the Karnatak the crop has been sown over a limited area owing to deficient sowing rains in June and July, and more rain is wanted. In the Konkan the crop is progressing well. In Sind germination is reported to be fair.

Bengal (5·1 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area sown with the early crop is estimated at 172,000 acres as against 171,000 acres (revised figure) for last year. The weather has been generally favourable for the crop in Western Bengal. In Eastern Bengal, where more than three-fourths of the crop is sown the rainfall was deficient at sowing time. The crop, however, improved through subsequent rainfall. Excessive rain interfered with the harvest operations and caused some damage. The average outturn of the crop for the province is estimated at 70 per cent of the normal, which works out to 12,000 tons, against 67 per cent of the normal or 18,000 tons (revised figure) last year.

Bihar and Orissa (4·1 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The area sown with the early crop is estimated at 10,000 acres, which is practically the same as reported at this date last year. The weather conditions were favourable except in parts of Balasore, where the crop suffered from excessive rain at the time of germination. The prospects of the crop are reported to be fair to good. The outturn of the crop for the province is estimated at about normal, giving a total yield of 1,600 tons, against 90 per cent of the normal or 1,500 tons last year.

Punjab (2·9 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The total area sown up to the end of July is estimated at 210,000 acres, which exceeds the area reported at this date last year by 42 per cent. There is an increase of 21 per cent in irrigated and 57 per cent in unirrigated sowings. The area now estimated is, however, 15 per cent less than the actual area of last year, owing to the restriction in foreign demand and low prices. The season has been very favourable for sowings, which are still in progress in a few central districts, and the second forecast should be an improvement on these estimates. The condition of the standing crop is good.

(b) Revised figure

(c) Excluding the United Provinces.

Ajmer-Merwara (0·3 per cent of the total area under sesamum in British India).—The area sown up to date is estimated at 9,000 acres, as compared with 2,000 acres reported at this date last year. The condition and prospects of the crop are reported to be good.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
25th August 1917.

Burma.—During the week moderate rain was general in Lower Burma. Amherst and Tavoy reporting falls of nearly 12 and 10 inches respectively. In ten other districts the rainfall exceeded 5 inches. In the dry zone except Pakokku, Kyaukse and Myingyan the rainfall was scanty but in the wet zone it was moderate. Cultivation of winter rice is progressing satisfactorily in Lower Burma and in irrigated tracts of Upper Burma. Agricultural operations for miscellaneous winter crops are proceeding in Upper Burma. Standing crops are in a satisfactory condition. Cattle are generally healthy. The price of unhusked rice at Rangoon has fallen further to Rs. 9½ and is considerably below normal. The market for white rice is weak.

Assam.—The weather is generally hot. More rain is wanted for the transplantation of winter rice. Harvesting of autumn rice has been almost finished. Cutting of jute, manufacture of tea and transplantation of winter rice continue. The outturn of autumn rice is generally good and that of jute and tea is fair to good. Prospects of other crops are fair to good. Cattle disease is reported from six districts. The price of common rice shows a tendency to fall.

Bengal.—During the week light to moderate rain fell generally all over the Province. More rain is needed especially in north Bengal for the steeping of jute and for the transplantation of winter paddy. Harvesting of autumn crops is proceeding and the outturn is expected to be fairly good. Transplantation of winter paddy is nearing completion. Weeding continues. Prospects of standing crops are reported to be generally satisfactory. Scarcity of fodder is reported from parts of the 24-Parganas, Dacca and Mymensingh districts. Cattle disease exists in ten districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen by 0·68 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week light to moderate rain was general over the Province. Harvesting of jute is going on and transplantation of paddy continues but more rain is wanted for the purpose in parts of Darbhanga, Bhagalpur, Purnea and Angul. Standing crops are on the whole doing well. The price of common rice has risen in two districts, fallen in three and remained stationary in the remaining districts as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from eleven districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—General rain has fallen during the week but more rain is required in Saharanpur, Bijnore, Gonda, Basti and parts of Bahraich district. Weeding of autumn and ploughing of lands for spring crops continue and in places harvesting of millet has commenced. Sugarcane was injured by insects in parts of Jaunpur and Ballia. Some damage to crops by excessive rain is reported from a few districts but standing crops are for the most part doing well and prospects are favourable. Agricultural stock is, on the whole, in good condition though cattle disease continues. Fodder and water are ample and prices are almost stationary.

Punjab.—During the week heavy and well distributed rain has fallen in all the reporting districts and has been generally beneficial. In some districts it has proved excessive and damage to crops on low lands has resulted. Sowings of autumn crops have been nearly completed and are normal. The condition of sugarcane, cotton and other standing crops is generally good. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are sufficient. In some districts canals are not working owing to heavy rainfall. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Prices are stationary and generally range between normal and warning rates. Prices of autumn grains are below normal in some districts. Price of wheat :—Rawalpindi 9½, Lahore 9½, Ambala and Lyallpur 10 and Ferozepore 10½ seers per rupee. ‡

North-West Frontier Province.—During the week rain fell throughout the Province. Fodder and water are sufficient. The condition of cattle is good. Prospects of autumn crops are average. Maize and spring oilseeds have been sown in some parts of Peshawar. Sowings of autumn crops have been nearly concluded in Bannu. The public health is good. The price of wheat in Peshawar is 9½ and in Dera Ismail Khan 10½ seers per rupee.

Jammu.—Heavy rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 12 and maize from 12 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. There is no cattle disease. Fodder is sufficient.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was good. Standing crops are in fair condition. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are normal.

Rajputana.—General rain fell during the week. A break is badly needed. Standing crops are in good condition but have been damaged by excessive rain and inundation. Cattle are in fair to good condition. Water and fodder are ample. Prices are falling generally.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was general. The principal falls were over 13 inches in Bajranggarh, over 6 inches in Mandasor, over 5 inches in ten stations in the Gwalior Prant, over 4 inches in Indore city, Kannod and Dhar, over 3 inches in Khargon and Jhabua, over 2 inches in Garot, Bagli, Jaora, Rutlam, Alirajpur and Manpur and over 1 inch in Mehidpur, Bundelkhand, Barwani and Jobat. The fall was insufficient in the Kukshi pargana of the Dhar State. Autumn crops are being weeded except in Gwalior and Bundelkhand where agricultural operations have been suspended owing to heavy rains. Land for spring crops is being prepared in some parganas of the Indore State. Standing crops are in fair to good condition. Damage by heavy rains and insects is reported from some places in Gwalior and by continuous rains in the Bhopal Agency. Agricultural stock is in good condition except for cattle disease. The fodder supply is sufficient. Prices are high in Bhopal, slightly fluctuating in Indore and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The week was rainy. Wardha and Berar districts received opportune showers. Autumn crops suffered slightly from excessive rain in parts of the Nerbudda valley and in the northern districts. Otherwise the condition and prospects of standing crops are good. Transplantation of rice is approaching completion. Weeding is in progress. Sowing of til continues. A break is needed for the preparation of land for the sowing of spring crops. Fodder is ample and agricultural stock is in good condition. There are no marked fluctuations in prices.

Feudatory States.—The rainfall was good. Standing crops are doing well. Weeding is in progress.

Bombay.—Good rain fell during the week throughout the Presidency but more rain is still needed in parts of East Deccan, Belgaum, Dharwar and Kathiawar. Standing crops are in good condition except for slight damage by rats in parts of Karachi, by rats and grasshoppers in one division of Thar and Parkar, by insects in parts of the Upper Sind Frontier and by excessive rain and breaches in canals in Larkana. The fodder supply is adequate except in parts of Khandesh and Ahmednagar. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle are in good condition. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Dharwar. Prices of food grains are generally steady.

Hyderabad. The rainfall during the week was good. The average fall was 2 inches 97 cents. The highest fall was 8 inches 71 cents in Alampur. Autumn crops and the early rice crop are generally in fair to good condition and are being weeded. Sowings continue. Lands for spring crops are being prepared and sowings have commenced. Cattle disease prevails in seven talukas. Prices of grains are high and steady. The highest price of maize in districts is 7 seers per rupee in Bidar and the lowest 16 seers per rupee in Bir and Raichur.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was fair to good. Prices of food grains are generally steady. Markets are well supplied. Ploughing, sowing and transplanting operations for paddy, ragi and sugarcane are in progress in parts. Standing crops are in good condition. Prospects of the season are generally good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Rainfall 4 inches 11 cents. Ploughing for rice has been completed and transplantation is nearing completion. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was very heavy in South Kanara, heavy in Kistna, Banganapalle, Cuddapah, Chingleput, Madras, Chittoor, Malabar and Cochin, fair in Salem and Coimbatore, light in Ramnad and Tinnevely and good elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but rain is required in parts of five districts. Harvesting of paddy and dry crops is proceeding normally with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water-supply is insufficient in parts of Ganjam, Bellary, Arantapur, Vellore, South Arcot, Central except Trichinopoly and South except Tanjore. Pasture is insufficient in three districts and in parts of four others. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN JUNE, 1917.

The object of the tables appended is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, and Karachi, and into the Madras ports during the month of June, 1917, and for the three months April to June, 1917, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1916. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN JUNE, 1916 AND 1917.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river, and sea in June, 1917, as against the corresponding month of 1916, show (in round numbers) an increase of—

365 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).

(394,700 tons as against 84,800 tons last year.)

273 per cent in gram and pulse.

(103,800 tons as against 27,900 tons last year.)

96 per cent in raw cotton.

(391,600 bales as against 200,200 bales last year.)

60 per cent in rape and mustard seed.

(14,300 tons as against 8,900 tons last year.)

52 per cent in jute.

(119,200 bales as against 78,400 bales last year.)

2 per cent in tea.

(16,675,000 lbs. as against 16,276,800 lbs. last year.)

The imports of linseed by rail, river, and sea into ports show a decrease of 51 per cent (12,400 tons as against 25,300 tons last year), due mainly to smaller exports from Bihar and Orissa and the United Provinces. The decrease of 35 per cent (48,800 tons as against 75,200 tons last year) in the imports of rice (including paddy), is accounted for by smaller shipments from Burma.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal source of the imports in June 1916 was the Punjab. During the corresponding month of 1917, the provinces from which the ports received their supplies were mainly the Punjab (51 per cent of the total), the

NOTE.—One bale of cotton or jute is equivalent to 400 lbs.

One maund is equivalent to 82½ lbs.

One maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice.

United Provinces (21 per cent), and the Central Provinces and Berar (11 per cent).

GENERAL RESULTS—THREE MONTHS' IMPORTS INTO THE PORTS FROM UP COUNTRY, ETC., THIS YEAR AND LAST YEAR.

The three months' figures in table I show (in round numbers) an increase of—

266 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).

(818,500 tons as against 223,800 tons last year.)

99 per cent in gram and pulse.

(238,400 tons as against 120,000 tons last year.)

58 per cent in raw cotton.

(1,801,300 bales as against 821,400 bales last year.)

28 per cent in jute.

(472,600 bales as against 369,800 bales last year.)

19 per cent in tea

(34,018,400 lbs as against 28,641,800 lbs last year.)

The imports of linseed by rail, river and sea into ports show a decrease of 57 per cent (62,400 tons as against 145,000 tons last year) mainly on account of smaller exports from the United Provinces and Bihar and Orissa. The decrease of 30 per cent (209,400 tons as against 300,300 tons last year) in rice (including paddy) is mainly due to smaller shipments from Burma. The fall of 22 per cent (50,200 tons as against 64,100 tons last year) in rape and mustard seed is accounted for by smaller exports into the ports, from the United Provinces.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN JUNE, 1917 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with May 1917, the imports in June 1917 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers) a decrease of—

41 per cent in jute

(119,200 bales as against 201,400 bales previous month.)

29 per cent in linseed

(12,400 tons as against 17,500 tons previous month.)

10 per cent in rice (including paddy).

(48,800 tons as against 54,000 tons previous month.)

4 per cent in rape and mustard seed

(14,300 tons as against 14,900 tons previous month.)

4 per cent in raw cotton

(391,600 bales as against 407,300 bales previous month.)

and an increase of—

123 per cent in tea

(16,675,000 lbs as against 7,478,200 lbs previous month.)

59 per cent in gram and pulse

(103,800 tons as against 65,300 tons previous month.)

56 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour)

By "Calcutta" is meant the town of Calcutta with Howrah and the Kidderpore Docks. The imports exclude, therefore, imports into those jute mills which are outside this area. Such mills form the large majority of the total mills manufacturing jute.

In the four months ended July, 1915, the amount of Council Bills paid was R3,87½ lakhs. As regards enfaced Rupee paper, R53,800 represented the amount of paper enfaced to London, and about R57 lakhs the amount re-transferred from London, in the four months, April to July, 1917, while in the corresponding period of 1916, R69,000 represented the amount of paper enfaced to London and R29½ lakhs the amount re-transferred from London.

MOVEMENTS OF GOLD AND SILVER (PRIVATE AND GOVERNMENT).

In the month of July, 1917, the imports of gold were valued at R2,02 lakhs and the exports at R4,300, as against R2,89 lakhs and R7,400 respectively in June, 1917. Of the imports, gold bullion was valued at R2½ lakhs, as against nearly R3 lakhs in the preceding month, while sovereigns and other British gold coin were valued at R1,95 lakhs, as against over R2,49 lakhs.

The imports of silver were valued at over R2,19 lakhs, of which about R1,78 lakhs were on Government account, as against nearly R1,80 lakhs on both private and Government account in June, 1917. The exports of silver were valued at more than R63 lakhs, of which about R41 lakhs were on Government account, as against over R25 lakhs, both on private and Government account, in the preceding month.

FIELD OPERATIONS.

No. 1443.—A despatch by Lieutenant-General Sir F. S. Maude, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., on the operations of the Expeditionary Force in Mesopotamia, from the 28th August 1916 to the 31st March 1917, is published for general information.

No. O.-1621-1, dated 10th April 1917.

From—LIEUTENANT-GENERAL F. S. MAUDE, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Commander-in-Chief, Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force,

To—The Chief of the General Staff, India.

I have the honour to submit herewith a report on the operations carried out by the Mesopotamian Expeditionary Force for the period extending from August 28th, 1916, the date upon which I assumed command of the Army, until March 31st, 1917, three weeks after the fall of Baghdad.

2. The area over which the responsibilities of the Army extended was a wide one, embracing Falahiyah on the Tigris, Ispahan (exclusive) in Persia, Bushire on the Persian Gulf and Nasariyah on the Euphrates. Briefly put the enemy's plan appeared to be to contain our main forces on the Tigris whilst a vigorous campaign, which would directly threaten India, was being developed in Persia. There were indications too of an impending move down the Euphrates towards Nasariyah. To disseminate our troops in order to safeguard the various conflicting interests involved would have relegated us to a passive defensive everywhere and it seemed clear from the outset that the true solution of the problem was a resolute offensive with concentrated forces on the Tigris, thus effectively threatening Baghdad, the centre from which the enemy's columns were operating. Such a stroke pursued with energy and success would, it was felt, automatically relieve the pressure in Persia and on the Euphrates, and preserve quiet in all districts with the security of which we were charged.

This, then, was the principle which guided the subsequent operations, which may be conveniently grouped into phases as follows:—

First.—Preliminary preparations from August 28th to December 12th.

Second.—The consolidation of our position on the Hai from December 13th to January 4th.

Third.—The operations in the Khadairi Bend from January 5th to 19th.

Fourth.—The operations against the Hai salient from January 20th to February 5th.

Fifth.—The operations in the Dahra Bend from February 6th to 16th.

Sixth.—The capture of Sannaiyat and passage of the Tigris from February 17th to 24th.

Seventh.—The advance on Baghdad from February 25th to March 11th.

Eighth.—The operations subsequent to the fall of Baghdad from March 12th to 31st.

PRELIMINARY PREPARATIONS.

August 28th to December 12th.

3. It was of paramount importance in view of the approach of the rainy season that no undue delay should take place in regard to the resumption of active operations, but before these could be undertaken with reasonable prospect of success it was necessary:—

- (a) To improve the health and training of the troops who had suffered severely from the intense heat during the summer months;
- (b) To perfect our somewhat precarious lines of communications;
- (c) To develop our resources;
- (d) To amass reserves of supplies, ammunition and stores at the front.

It was, therefore, considered desirable to retain General Headquarters at Basrah till the end of October in order to systematize, co-ordinate and expand (b) and (c), whilst (a) and (d) continued concurrently and subsequently.

4. Steady progress was made on the lines so carefully designed and developed by my predecessor Lieutenant-General Sir Percy Lake, K.C.B., K.C.M.G., to whom my warm thanks are due for the firm foundations which had been laid for the ensuing winter campaign. The growth of Basrah as a military port and base continued, and the laying of railways was completed. The subsidence of the floods and the organisation of local and imported labour removed obstacles which had hitherto hindered development, although conversely the lack of water in the rivers and consequent groundings of rivercraft gave rise to anxiety from time to time. The Directorate of Inland Water Transport was created and accessions of men and material arrived from overseas as well as additional rivercraft; whilst the influx of adequate and experienced personnel for the Directorate of Port Administration and Conservancy, Works, Railways, Supply and Transport and Ordnance enabled these services to cope more adequately with their responsibilities in maintaining the field army. Hospital accommodation was reviewed and still further expanded, whilst the Remount and Veterinary Services were overhauled and reconstituted. Changes were also made in the organisation of the Army, the grouping of formations and units was readjusted, and alterations were made in the system of command. The line of communication defences were recast and additional line of communication units for administrative purposes were provided. Establishments for all units, whether on the various fronts or on the lines of communication were fixed, whilst the provision of mechanical transport and an increase in animals and vehicles enabled the land transport with the force to be reconstituted.

5. During the latter part of October the Army was fortunate in receiving a visit from the incoming Commander-in-Chief in India—General Sir Charles Monro, G.C.M.G., K.C.B. His Excellency made an extended tour of the theatre of operations and his advice and comments on various matters were of the greatest value to myself personally, whilst the Army hailed his visit with the liveliest satisfaction, feeling that he would assume his office with first-hand and sympathetic knowledge of our needs and difficulties.

6. Matters had by this time developed so satisfactorily that during His Excellency's visit General Headquarters were moved to the front at Arab Village. Before joining there myself I carried out short tours of inspection on the Karun front at Ahwaz, proceeding as far as the oilfields, so as to make further provision for their local security, and on the Euphrates front at Nasariyah. At both places satisfactory conditions prevailed.

By the end of November preliminary preparations were well advanced. A steady stream of reinforcements had been moving up the Tigris for some weeks and drafts were joining their units, making good the wastage of the summer. The troops had shaken off the ill effects of the hot weather and their war training had improved. Stores, ammunition and supplies were accumulating rapidly at the front, our communications were assured, and it seemed clear that it was only a matter of days before offensive operations could be justifiably undertaken. Training camps which had been formed at Amarah were broken up and the general concentration upstream of Sheikh Sa'ad was completed.

7. At the beginning of December the enemy still occupied the same positions on the Tigris front which he had occupied during the summer. On the left bank of the Tigris he held the Sannaiyat position, flanked on one side by the Suwaikieh Marsh and on the other by the river. In this position he had withstood our attacks on three occasions during the previous April. Since then he had strengthened and elaborated this trench system and a series of successive positions extended back as far as Kut, 15 miles in rear. The river bank from Sannaiyat to Kut was also entrenched.

On the right bank of the Tigris the enemy held the line to which he had withdrawn in May when he evacuated the Sinn position. This line extended from a point on the Tigris three miles north-east of Kut in a south-westerly direction across the Khadairi Bend to the river Hai two miles below its exit from the Tigris, and thence across the Hai to the north-west. There was a pontoon bridge across the Hai near its junction with the Tigris, which was protected by the trench system in that vicinity. These defences also covered the approaches from the east and south to another pontoon bridge which the Turks had constructed across the Tigris on the eastern side of the Shumran peninsula. The enemy occupied the line of the Hai for several miles below the bridge-head position with posts and mounted Arab auxiliaries.

On the left bank of the Tigris our trenches were within 120 yards of the Turkish front line at Sannaiyat. On the right bank our troops were established some eleven miles upstream of Sannaiyat, with advanced posts about two miles from those of the Turks opposite the Khadairi Bend, and some five miles from his position on the Hai.

In the positions outlined above desultory warfare with intermittent artillery and aerial activity had continued for some months.

Strategically we were better situated than the enemy. The withdrawal of the bulk of his troops from the right bank of the Tigris left him with his communications in prolongation of his battle front. If we established ourselves on the Hai it would mean that we should be able to strike at those communications or at least at the point of junction between his field units and his communications. On the other hand we were exposed to no such danger. The Suwaikieh Marsh, although it protected the northern flank of the Sannaiyat position, also formed an obstacle which necessitated a wide detour through a district at times marshy, at others waterless, to reach the river line behind us. Again our troops were suitably disposed to meet any attempt from the Hai to turn our left flank and thus strike our communications—a movement which would have involved long marches with difficulties as regards water and supplies.

It was decided therefore to operate as follows :—First, to secure possession of the Hai; secondly, to clear the Turkish trench system still remaining on the right bank of the Tigris; thirdly, to sap the enemy's strength by constant attacks and give him no rest; fourthly to compel him to give up the Sannaiyat position, or, in default of that, to extend his attenuated forces more and more to counter our strokes against his communications; and lastly, to cross the Tigris at the weakest part of his line as far west as possible and so sever his communications. In carrying out this programme our extended line offered good opportunities for making successful feints to cover our real intention.

THE CONSOLIDATION OF OUR POSITION ON THE HAI.

From December 13th to January 4th.

8. By the 12th the concentration of our troops upstream of Sheikh Sa'ad was complete. To the force under Lieutenant-General A. S. Cobbe, V.C., K.C.B., D.S.O., was assigned the task of holding the enemy to his position on the left bank of the Tigris and piquetting the right bank as far as Sinn Banks, while the cavalry and the force under Lieutenant-General W. R. Marshall, K.C.B., were by a surprise march to secure and entrench a position on the Hai.

During the night of the 12th-13th Lieutenant-General Marshall's force completed its concentration in the forward area on the right bank. On the 13th General Headquarters moved forward to Sinn, whilst Lieutenant-General Cobbe bombarded the Turkish trenches on the left bank so as to give the impression that an attack on Sannaiyat was intended.

On the night of the 13th-14th the cavalry and Lieutenant-General Marshall's force marched westwards to the Hai and at 6 A.M. crossed that river at Basrugiyah and Atab respectively. The enemy was surprised and the force pivoting on its right moved up the left (or eastern) bank of the Hai, whilst the cavalry cleared the right, (or western) bank, driving the enemy's advanced troops back on to the Hai bridge-head position which was strongly held. Two pontoon bridges were thrown across the Hai at Atab, the right flank of the force under Lieutenant-General Marshall was secured by linking up its old front line defences with its new position on the Hai, and Lieutenant-General Cobbe continued to demonstrate against Sannaiyat.

During the night of the 14th-15th our aeroplanes, flying by moonlight, bombed the Turkish bridge over the Tigris east of the Shumran peninsula, which the enemy was endeavouring to move further upstream, and the pontoons, breaking adrift, were scattered. By the 18th the enemy succeeded in re-establishing this bridge to the west of Shumran.

Between the 15th and 18th Lieutenant-General Marshall extended his hold northwards and westwards and pressure against the enemy's Hai bridge-head position was continued, whilst bombardments destroyed his bridge and sunk several of his pontoon ferries. Except for some patrolling and sniping the enemy showed no offensive enterprise; but he worked hard at his defences every night.

On the 18th we interposed between the two Turkish trench systems on the right bank of the Tigris opposite Kut, thus severing the enemy's lateral communications on this bank and giving us command of the river upstream of the Khadairi Bend. The extent of river line to be watched by Lieutenant-General Cobbe was now extended up to this point.

9. The remainder of the month and the first part of January were devoted to consolidating our position on the Hai. Communications were improved by making additional bridges and by the construction of roads and the light railway was pushed forward to the Hai. Operations were hampered by heavy rain which fell during the last week in December and the first week in January, flooding large tracts of country, and by a sudden rise in the river which occurred early in the new year. The single-line light railway and the land transport were materially affected, and only sheer determination on the part of those concerned enabled them to carry on their functions under these trying conditions.

Where the ground was not too sodden by rain and floods our cavalry was constantly engaged during this period in reconnaissances, in harassing the enemy's communications west of the Hai, and in raids capturing stock and grain. For example, on the 18th the cavalry with detachment of infantry operating west of Shumran drove the enemy from his trenches and shelled his bridge and shipping, and on the 20th, while a similar raid was being made against the Shumran bridge area and bombardments were being carried out around Kut and at Sannaiyat, a column of all arms essayed to bridge the Tigris four miles west of Shumran. But as our arrival there had been anticipated by the enemy, and the further bank was found to be strongly entrenched, the troops were ordered to withdraw after some gallant attempts to launch pontoons had been made and after some Turks found on the right bank had been taken prisoners.

As the result of our occupation of the Hai we had :—

- (a) Secured a position whence we could control that waterway and directly threaten the enemy's communications west of Shumran ;
- (b) Rendered Nasariyah safe against a hostile movement from the Tigris down the Hai ;
- (c) Increased the possibility of obtaining supplies from the prosperous districts on the middle Hai, and rendered it correspondingly difficult for the enemy to supply himself from there ;
- (d) Interposed between the Turks and their adherents at Shattrah.

THE OPERATIONS IN THE KHADAIRI BEND.

January 5th to 19th.

10. It was evident that the enemy intended to maintain his hold on the right bank of the Tigris, and preparations were accordingly made to reduce these trench systems. His position in the Khadairi Bend was a menace to our communications with the Hai, for in the event of a high flood he could inundate portions of our line by opening the river bunds. It was therefore decided to clear the Khadairi Bend in the first instance and this operation was assigned to the force under Lieutenant-General Cobbe. The enemy held a well-prepared line some 2,600 yards long facing east. The ground in front was flat and bare, except for a belt of low brushwood along the river bank on the northern flank. At the southern end, 200 yards from the river and parallel to it, was a double row of sandhills on which the enemy had constructed a strong point with covered-in machine gun emplacements. The front of the position was swept by fire from both flanks from the left bank of the river. There was a second line in rear at distances varying from 500 to 1,000 yards from the front line, whilst between the two were trenches and nalas prepared for defence. The southern portion of the second line and some sandhills 400 yards behind it formed a last position, and the garrison had communication with the left bank by means of ferries, which, owing to the conformation of the river bend, were protected from direct rifle and machine gun fire so long as this retired position was held.

Our troops drove in the Turkish advanced posts, but progress was slow as many of the trenches had to be made by sapping. On the 7th our trenches were within 200 to 350 yards of the enemy, the rain had ceased, and as the ground was beginning to dry preparations for the assault were made. This preliminary stage had involved digging some 25,000 yards of trench under trying conditions—constant rain and exposure to enfilade as well as direct fire.

On the 7th and 8th bombardments were carried out. On the 9th a successful assault was delivered with small loss on a front of 600 yards against the southern end of the Turkish line, but a thick mist hindered further artillery support and facilitated counter-attack by the enemy. Severe hand to hand fighting ensued, but the Gurkhas and Mahrattas on the left reached the river bend, having inflicted severe casualties on the enemy. On the right our troops continued to gain ground along trenches and nalas until a heavy counter-attack, made under cover of the mist, temporarily checked its progress. This counter-attack was defeated with heavy loss by the resolute resistance of the Manchesterers, a frontier Rifle Regiment and a detachment of Sikh Pioneers. The ground gained was consolidated during the night.

Prior to the attack on the 9th, raids had been made into the enemy's front line at Sannaiyat. Simultaneously a diversion was carried out by Lieutenant-General Marshall against the Hai bridge head, whilst other intended operations west of the Hai by the cavalry and a detachment of Lieutenant-General Marshall's force were necessarily abandoned on account of the mist.

12. On the 10th the attack was resumed in foggy weather and the enemy was pressed back trench by trench till by nightfall he had fallen back to his last position.

On the 11th an unsuccessful attack was made on this position. Our troops reached their objective but were driven back by a strong counter-attack. A further counter-attack, which attempted to recover trenches which we had taken on the previous day, suffered heavily from our artillery and machine guns during its retirement. On this occasion a battalion of Sikhs specially distinguished themselves.

On the same day the cavalry occupied Hai Town and remained there several days. A considerable quantity of arms, ammunition and supplies was captured, and on our withdrawal an attack made on our troops as they retired received well-merited punishment, a Jat Lancer Regiment executing a brilliant charge.

13. Owing to the open nature of the ground now confronting our troops, and in view of the fact that it was commanded at close range from both flanks from across the river, it was decided to construct covered approaches and trenches in which to assemble the troops under cover prior to the assault.

By the 17th the forward trench system was completed, and one by one the enemy's advanced posts had been captured. A strong point, which would enfilade the attack, only remained. On the night of the 17th-18th our troops captured and lost this redoubt twice. They retook it again on the 18th and held it.

The final assault was fixed for the 19th, but during the night of the 18th-19th the enemy, under cover of rifle and machine gun fire, retired across the river.

During these operations the fighting had been severe and mainly hand to hand, but the enemy, in spite of his tenacity, had more than met his match in the dash and resolution of our troops, and had learnt a lesson which was to become more deeply ingrained on subsequent occasions. The enemy's losses, judging from the number of dead found by us, were very heavy, and we captured many prisoners and a considerable quantity of war stores.

THE OPERATIONS AGAINST THE HAI SALIENT.

From January 20th to February 5th.

14. On the 11th, while Lieutenant-General Cobbe was still engaged in clearing the Khadairi Bend, Lieutenant-General Marshall commenced preparations for the reduction of the Hai salient, the extensive trench system which the Turks held astride the Hai river near its junction with the Tigris, and for a fortnight we gained ground steadily in face of strong opposition until on the 24th our trenches were within 400 yards of the enemy's front line.

15. On the 25th the enemy's front line astride the Hai was captured on a frontage of about 1,800 yards. On the eastern (or left) bank our troops extended their success to the Turkish second line and consolidated and held all ground won in spite of counter-attacks during the day and following night. The enemy lost heavily, both from our bombardment and in violent hand to hand encounters. On the western (or right) bank the task was a severe one. The trench system attacked was elaborate and offered facilities for counter-attack. The enemy was in considerable strength on this bank, and guns and machine guns in skilfully concealed positions enfiladed our advance. Our objective was secured, but the Turks made four counter-attacks. The first was repulsed; the second reached the captured line and was about to recapture it when a gallant charge across the open by the Royal Warwicks restored the situation; the third was broken up by our artillery fire; the fourth, supported by artillery and trench mortars, forced our infantry back to their own trenches. As it was now late, further attack was postponed till the following morning.

On the 26th the assault was renewed by two Punjabi battalions with complete success, and the captured trenches were at once consolidated. Subsequently our gains were increased by bombing attacks and with the bayonet in face of stubborn opposition, and a counter-attack in the afternoon was repulsed by our artillery. Meanwhile our troops had considerably increased their hold on the enemy's position east of the Hai by bombing attacks, though their progress was hampered by the battered condition of the trenches and by the numbers of Turkish dead lying in them. On this bank the first and second lines, on a frontage of 2,000 yards, were captured by the 27th, and on the following day the whole of the front line had been secured on a frontage of two miles and to a depth varying from 300 to 700 yards, the enemy withdrawing to an inner line.

On the 27th and 28th our troops penetrated further into the Turkish defences west of the Hai by bombing attacks supported by artillery barrage and consolidated their position in the first four lines of trenches on a frontage of 600 yards. On the 29th they secured more trenches by means of infantry raids supported by artillery.

16. The movements of the cavalry had meanwhile been restricted by the water-logged state of the ground. It had been intended to move the Division via Bedrah and Jessan against the enemy's rear, so as to synchronize with Lieut.-General Marshall's attack, and reconnaissance showed that the proposal was feasible, but soon after the movement had commenced a heavy thunderstorm burst over the district, and the flooding of the Marsh of Jessan and its neighbourhood rendered progress impracticable, and the attempt was abandoned. The work done by the cavalry in man-handling guns and vehicles on this occasion was especially commendable.

17. After a short pause to readjust our dispositions, the centre of the enemy's third line on the eastern (or left) bank of the Hai was successfully assaulted by the Cheshires on February 1st. Bombers pushed rapidly east and west until the whole trench had been secured from the Tigris to the Hai on a front of about 2,100 yards, and an attempted counter-attack was broken by our artillery. The enemy's casualties were heavy, and many prisoners were taken. On the western (or right) bank the two Sikh Battalions captured the enemy's position on a front of 500 yards, but our troops, especially the left of the attack, were subjected to artillery and machine gun fire in enfilade. The trench system was complicated and difficult to consolidate and it was not long before the Turks delivered a counter-attack in strength. The most advanced parties of our infantry met the enemy's charge in brilliant style by a counter-charge in the open, and casualties on both sides were severe. The preponderance of weight was, however, with the enemy, and our troops in spite of great gallantry were forced back by sheer weight of numbers to their original front line.

Owing to foggy weather on the 2nd which hampered artillery registration, a renewal of the attack was deferred until the 3rd, but meanwhile Lieutenant-General Marshall extended his left north-westwards towards the Tigris at Yusufiyah with a view to enclosing the Dahra Bend ultimately.

18. On the 3rd the Devons and a Gurkha battalion carried the enemy's first and second lines, and a series of counter-attacks by the Turks which continued up till dark withered away under our shrapnel and machine gun fire. Our troops east of the Hai co-operated with machine gun and rifle fire and two counter-attacks by the enemy on the left bank of the Hai during the day were satisfactorily disposed of. In the evening there were indications that he was contemplating withdrawal to the right bank, and by daybreak on the 4th the whole of the left bank had passed into our possession. That night there was heavy rifle fire on our front up to midnight when it gradually died away. Patrols before dawn encountered little opposition and the enemy was found to have fallen back to the Liquorice Factory and a line east and west across the Dahra Bend.

During this period the splendid fighting qualities of the infantry were well seconded by the bold support rendered by the artillery, and by the ceaseless work carried out by the Royal Flying Corps. These operations had again resulted in heavy losses to the enemy, as testified to by the dead found, and many prisoners—besides arms, ammunition, equipment and stores—had been taken, whilst the Turks now only retained a fast vanishing hold on the right bank of the Tigris.

THE OPERATIONS IN THE DAHRA BEND.

February 6th to 16th.

19. The 6th to the 8th were days of preparation, but continuous pressure on the enemy was maintained day and night by vigorous patrolling and intermittent bombardment, and many minor enterprises were undertaken whereby losses were inflicted and advanced posts wrested from him. An assault on the Liquorice Factory would have been costly; therefore it was decided to deal with it by howitzer and machine gun fire, so as to render it untenable—or at least prevent the garrison from enfilading our troops as they moved north.

On the 9th the Liquorice Factory was bombarded and simultaneously, the King's Own effected a lodgment in the centre of the enemy's line, thereafter gaining ground rapidly forward and to both flanks. Repeated attacks by the enemy's bombers met with no success and two attempted counter-attacks were quickly suppressed by our artillery. Further west the Worcesters, working towards Yusufiyah and west of that place captured some advanced posts, trenches and prisoners, and established a line within 2,500 yards of the Tigris at the southern end of the Shumran Bend.

On the 10th our infantry in the trenches west of the Liquorice Factory who had been subjected all night to repeated bombing attacks, began early to extend our hold on the enemy's front line. This movement was followed by a bombardment directed against machine guns located at Kut and along the left bank of the Tigris which were bringing a galling fire to bear against our right. During this the Buffs and a Gurkha Battalion dashed forward and, joining hands with the King's Own on their left, the whole line advanced northwards. As communication trenches did not exist, any movement was necessarily across the open and was subject to a hot fire from concealed machine guns on the left.

bank, but in spite of this progress was made all along the front to depths varying from 300 to 2,000 yards; our success compelling the enemy to evacuate the Liquorice Factory. Artillery observation was much hindered by a high wind and dust storm.

20. The operations of the 10th and the information obtained by patrols during the night of the 10th-11th made it clear that the enemy had withdrawn to an inner line, approximately two and a half miles long, across the Dahra Bend, with advanced posts strongly held. Weather conditions rendered aerial reconnaissance impracticable and some readjustment of our front was necessary before further attack upon his trenches could be justified, but on the 11th our infantry established a post on the Tigris south-east of the Shumran peninsula, and on the following day extended our hold on the right bank. The enemy was finally enclosed in the Dahra Bend by the 13th.

An attack against the enemy's right centre offered the best prospects of success and this involved the construction of trenches and approaches for the accommodation of troops destined for the assault. The foreground was, however, occupied by the enemy's piquets and the dispersal of these necessitated a series of minor combats between our patrols and the enemy's covering troops as well as some severe fighting on the 12th. Opposite our right an important point was brilliantly captured by assault across the open on the 12th by an Indian Grenadier Battalion and retained, in spite of heavy fire, during the advance and two counter-attacks launched subsequently. This success not only deprived the enemy of a point from which he could enfilade most of his own front, but enabled us to force the withdrawal of his advanced posts in the eastern section of his position.

During the four days of preparation, although there were indications that the enemy intended to stand and fight, the most likely ferry points were bombarded every night lest transfers of men and stores across the Tigris might be in progress.

21. Early on the 15th the Loyal North Lancashires captured a strong point opposite our left which enfiladed the approaches to the enemy's right and centre, the retiring Turks losing heavily from our machine gun fire. An hour later the enemy's extreme left was subjected to short bombardment and feint attack. This caused the enemy to dislodge his barrage in front of our right and indicated that our constant activity on this part of his front had been successful in making him believe that our main attack would be made against that part of his line.

Shortly after the Royal Welsh Fusiliers and South Wales Borderers carried the enemy's right centre in dashing style on a front of 700 yards, and extended their success by bombing to a depth of 500 yards on a frontage of 1,000 yards, taking many prisoners. Several half-hearted counter-attacks ensued, which were crushed by our artillery and machine guns, and it became evident that the enemy had strengthened his left and could not transfer troops back to his centre on account of our barrage. A little later the enemy's left centre was captured by the Buffs and Dogras and, pushing on in a north-easterly direction to the bank of the Tigris, they isolated the enemy's extreme left where about 1,000 Turks surrendered. By nightfall the only resistance was from some trenches in the right rear of the position, covering about a mile of the Tigris bank, from which the enemy were trying to escape across the river, and it had been intended to clear these remaining trenches by a combined operation during the night, but two companies of a Gurkha Battalion, acting on their own initiative, obtained a footing in them and took 98 prisoners. By the morning of the 16th they had completed their task, having taken 264 more prisoners. The total number of prisoners taken on the 15th and 16th was 2,003, and the Dahra Bend was cleared of the enemy.

Thus terminated a phase of severe fighting brilliantly carried out. To eject the enemy from this horseshoe bend bristling with trenches and commanded from across the river on three sides by hostile batteries and machine guns called for offensive qualities of a high standard on the part of the troops. That such good results were achieved was due to the heroism and determination of the infantry and to the close and ever present support rendered by the artillery, whose accurate fire was assisted by efficient aeroplane observation. Very heavy rain fell on the night of the 15th-16th and torrential rain during the afternoon and night of the 16th, bivouacs and trenches being flooded out.

22. The enemy had now after two months of strenuous fighting been driven entirely from the right bank of the Tigris in the neighbourhood of Kut. He still held however a very strong position defensively, in that it was protected from Sannaiyat to Shumran by the Tigris, which also afforded security to his communications running along the left bank of that river. The successive lines at Sannaiyat which had been consistently strengthened for nearly a year barred the way on a narrow front to an advance on our part along the left bank, whilst north of Sannaiyat the Suwaikieh Marsh and the Marsh of Jess rendered the Turks immune from attack from the north. On the other hand we had, by the application of constant pressure to the vicinity of Shumran, where the enemy's battle line and communications met, compelled him so to weaken and expand his front that his attenuated forces were found to present vulnerable points if these could be ascertained. The moment then seemed ripe to cross the river and commence conclusions with the enemy on the left bank. To effect this it was important that his attention should be engaged about Sannaiyat and along the river line between Sannaiyat and Kut whilst the main stroke was being prepared and delivered as far west as possible.

THE CAPTURE OF SANNAIYAT AND PASSAGE OF THE TIGRIS.

From February 17th to 24th.

23. While Lieutenant-General Marshall's force was engaged in the Dabra Bend Lieutenant-General Cobbe maintained constant activity along the Sannaiyat front, and, as soon as the right bank had been cleared, orders were issued for Sannaiyat to be attacked on the 17th.

The sodden condition of the ground, consequent on heavy rain during the preceding day and night, hampered final preparations, but the first and second lines on a frontage of about 400 yards were captured by a surprise assault with little loss. Before the captured trenches, however, could be consolidated, they were subjected to heavy fire from artillery and trench mortars, and were strongly counter-attacked by the enemy. The first counter-attack was dispersed, but the second regained for the enemy his lost ground, except on the river bank, where a party of Gurkhas maintained themselves until dusk and were then withdrawn. Although we had failed to hold the trenches won, considerable loss had been inflicted on the enemy, especially during the counter-attacks, and the operations had served their purpose in attracting the enemy to the Sannaiyat front.

The water-logged state of the country and a high flood on the Tigris now necessitated a pause, but the time was usefully employed in methodical preparation for the passage of the Tigris about Shumran. Positions for guns and machine guns to support the crossing were selected, approaches and ramps were made, and crews were trained to man the pontoons. In order to keep our intentions concealed it was necessary that most of the details, including the movement of guns, should be carried out under cover of night. Opposite Sannaiyat, where it was intended to renew the assault, artillery barrages were carried out daily, in order to induce the enemy to expect such barrages unaccompanied by an assault as part of the daily routine. Minor diversions were also planned to deceive the enemy as to the point at which it was intended to cross the river.

On the 22nd the Seaforths and a Punjabi battalion assaulted Sannaiyat, with the same objectives as on the 17th. The enemy were again taken by surprise and our losses were slight. A series of counter-attacks followed, and the first three were repulsed without difficulty. The fourth drove back our left, but the Punjabis, reinforced by an Indian Rifle Battalion and assisted by the fire of the Seaforths who were still holding the Turkish trenches on their right front, re-established their position. Two more counter-attacks which followed were defeated. As soon as the captured position had been consolidated, two frontier force regiments assaulted the trenches still held by the enemy in prolongation of and to the north of those already occupied by us. A counter-attack forced our right back temporarily, but the situation was restored by the arrival of reinforcements and by nightfall we were in secure occupation of the first two lines of Sannaiyat. The brilliant tenacity of the Seaforths throughout this day deserves special mention.

Feints in connection with the passage of the Tigris were made on the nights of the 22nd-23rd opposite Kut and at Magasis respectively. Opposite Kut preparations for bridging the Tigris opposite the Liquorice Factory under cover of a bombardment of Kut were made furtively in daylight, and every detail down to the erection of observation ladders was provided for. The result was, as afterwards ascertained, that the enemy moved infantry and guns into the Kut peninsula, and these could not be re-transferred to the actual point of crossing in time to be of any use. The feint at Maga-is consisted of a raid across the river, made by a detachment of Punjabis, assisted by parties of Sappers and Miners and of the Sikh Pioneers. This bold raid was successfully carried out with trifling loss and the detachment returned with a captured trench mortar.

The site selected for the passage of the Tigris was at the south end of the Shumran Bend, where the bridge was to be thrown, and three ferrying places were located immediately downstream of this point. Just before daybreak on the 23rd the three ferries began to work. The first trip at the ferry immediately below the bridge site, where the Norfolks crossed, was a complete surprise and five machine guns and some 300 prisoners were captured. Two battalions of Gurkhas, who were using the two lower ferries, were met by a staggering fire before they reached the left bank, but in spite of losses in men and pontoons they pressed on gallantly and effected a landing. The two downstream ferries were soon under such heavy machine gun fire that they had to be closed, and all ferrying was subsequently carried on by means of the upstream ferry. By 7.30 A.M., about three companies of the Norfolks and some 150 of the Gurkhas were on the left bank. The enemy's artillery became increasingly active, but was vigorously engaged by ours, and the construction of the bridge commenced. The Norfolks pushed rapidly upstream on the left bank taking many prisoners, whilst our machine guns on the right bank west of the Shumran Bend inflicted casualties on those Turks who tried to escape. The Gurkha battalions on the right and centre were meeting with more opposition and their progress was slower. By 3 P.M. all three battalions were established on an east and west line one mile north of the bridge site and a fourth battalion was being ferried over. The enemy attempted to counter-attack down the centre of the peninsula and to reinforce along its western edge, but both attempts were foiled by the quickness and accuracy of our artillery. At 4.30 P.M. the bridge was ready for traffic.

By nightfall, as a result of the day's operations, our troops had by their unconquerable valour and determination forced a passage across a river in flood, 340 yards wide, in face of strong opposition, and had secured a position 2,000 yards in depth covering the bridge-head, while ahead of this line our patrols were acting vigorously against the enemy's advanced detachments, who had suffered heavy losses, including about 700 prisoners taken in all. The infantry of one division were across and another division was ready to follow.

25. While the crossing at Shumran was proceeding, Lieutenant-General Cobbe had secured the third and fourth lines at Sannaiyat. Bombing parties occupied the fifth line later and work was carried on all night making roads across the maze of trenches for the passage of artillery and transport.

26. Early on the 24th our troops in the Shumran Bend resumed the advance supported by machine guns and artillery from the right bank. The enemy held on tenaciously at the north-east corner of the peninsula, where there is a series of nalas in which a number of machine guns were concealed, but after a strenuous fight lasting for four or five hours he was forced back and two field and two machine guns and many prisoners fell into our possession. Further west our troops were engaged with strong enemy forces in the intricate mass of ruins, mounds and nalas which lie to the north-west of Shumran, and rapid progress was impossible, but towards evening the enemy had been pushed back to a depth of 1,000 yards, although he still resisted stubbornly. While this fighting was in progress the cavalry, the artillery, and another division crossed the bridge. The cavalry attempted to break through at the northern end of the Shumran Bend to operate against the enemy's rear along the Baghdad road by which aeroplanes reported hostile columns to be retreating, but strong Turkish rearguards entrenched in nalas prevented them issuing from the peninsula. That evening the troops closed up ready to advance early next morning. There was every indication that the enemy was in full retreat and that the force which had opposed us all day was a strong and very resolute rearguard, which would probably withdraw by night. During this day's fighting at Shumran heavy losses had been inflicted on the enemy, and our captures had been increased in all to 4 field guns, 8 machine guns, some 1,650 prisoners, and a large quantity of rifles, ammunition, equipment and war stores. The gunboats were now ordered upstream from Falahiyah and reached Kut the same evening.

27. While these events were happening at Shumran, Lieutenant-General Cobbe cleared the enemy's sixth line at Sannaiyat, the Nakhilat and Suwada positions, and the left bank as far as Kut without much opposition.

The capture of the Sannaiyat position, which the Turks believed to be impregnable, had only been accomplished after a fierce struggle, in which our infantry, closely supported by our artillery, displayed great gallantry and endurance against a brave and determined enemy. The latter had again suffered severely. Many trenches were choked with corpses, and the open ground, where counter-attacks had taken place, was strewn with them.

THE ADVANCE ON BAGHDAD.

From February 25th to March 11th.

28. Early in the morning on the 25th, the cavalry and Lieutenant-General Marshall's force moved north-west in pursuit of the enemy, whose rearguards had retired in the night. The gunboats also proceeded upstream. Our troops came in contact with the enemy about eight miles from Shumran, and drove him back, in spite of stubborn resistance, to his main position two miles further west, where the Turks, strong in artillery, were disposed in trenches and nalas. Our guns, handled with dash, gave valuable support, but were handicapped in this flat country by being in the open, whilst the Turkish guns were concealed in gun pits. After a severe fight our infantry gained a footing in the enemy's position and took about 400 prisoners. The cavalry on the northern flank had been checked by entrenched infantry and were unable to envelope the Turkish rearguard. The Royal Navy on our left flank co-operated with excellent effect in the bombardment of the enemy's position during the day.

On the 26th one column, following the bend of the river, advanced to force any position which the enemy might be holding on the left bank of the Tigris, whilst another column of all arms marched direct to the Sumar Bend in order to intercept him. His retreat proved however to be too rapid. Stripping themselves of guns and other encumbrances, the Turks just evaded our troops, who had made a forced march across some 18 miles of arid plain. Our cavalry came up with the enemy's rear parties and shelled his rearguard entrenched near Nahr Kellak.

29. The gunboat flotilla, proceeding upstream 'full speed ahead,' came under very heavy fire at the closest range from guns, machine guns and rifles, to which it replied vigorously. In spite of casualties and damage to the vessels the flotilla held on its course past the rearguard position, and did considerable execution among the enemy's retreating columns. Further upstream many of the enemy's craft were struggling to get away, and the Royal Navy pressed forward in pursuit. The hostile vessels were soon within easy range and several surrendered, including the armed tug "Sumana" which had been captured at Kut when that place fell. The Turkish steamer "Basra" full of troops and wounded surrendered, when brought to by a shell which killed and wounded some German machine gunners. H. M. S. "Firefly," captured from us during the retreat from Ctesiphon in 1915, kept up a running fight, but after being hit several times she fell into our hands, the enemy making an unsuccessful attempt to set fire to her magazine. The "Pioneer" badly hit by our fire was also taken, as well as some barges laden with munitions. Our gunboats were in touch with and shelled the retreating enemy during most of the 27th, and his retirement was harassed by the cavalry until after dark, when his troops were streaming through Aziziyeh in great confusion.

30. The pursuit was broken off at Aziziyeh (50 miles from Kut and half-way to Baghdad), where the gunboats, cavalry and Lieutenant-General Marshall's infantry were concentrated during the pause necessary to reorganise our extended line of communication preparatory to a further advance. Lieutenant-General Cobbe's force closed to the front, clearing the battlefields and protecting the line of march. Immense quantities of equipment, ammunition, rifles, vehicles and stores of all kinds lay scattered throughout the 80 miles over which the enemy had retreated under pressure, and marauders on looting intent did not hesitate to attack small parties who stood in their way.

Since crossing the Tigris we had captured some 4,000 prisoners, of whom 188 were officers, 39 guns, 22 trench mortars, 11 machine guns, H. M. S. "Firefly," "Sumana" (recaptured), "Pioneer," "Basra," and several smaller vessels, besides ten barges, pontoons and other bridging material, quantities of rifles, bayonets, equipment, ammunition and explosives, vehicles and miscellaneous stores of all kinds. In addition the enemy throw into the river or otherwise destroyed several guns and much war material.

31. On the 5th, the supply situation having been rapidly readjusted, Lieutenant-General Marshall marched to Zaur (18 miles), preceded by the cavalry, which moved seven miles further to Lajj. Here the Turkish rearguard was found in an entrenched position, very difficult to locate by reason of a dense dust storm that was blowing and of a network of nalas with which the country is intersected. The cavalry was hotly engaged with the enemy in this locality throughout the day and took some prisoners. A noticeable feature of the day's work was a brilliant charge made, mounted, by the Hussars straight into the Turkish trenches. The enemy retreated during the night.

The dust storm continued on the 6th, when the cavalry carrying out some useful reconnaissances, got within three miles of the Dialah river and picked up some prisoners. The Ctesiphon position strongly entrenched was found unoccupied. There was evidence that the enemy had intended to hold it, but the rapidity of our advance had evidently prevented him from doing so. Lieutenant-General Marshall followed the cavalry to Bustan (17 miles) and the head of Lieutenant-General Cobbe's column reached Zaur.

On the 7th our advanced guard came in contact with the enemy on the line of the Dialah river, which joins the Tigris on its left bank about eight miles below Baghdad. As the ground was absolutely flat and devoid of cover it was decided to make no further advance till after sunset. Our gunboats and artillery however came into action against the hostile guns.

32. Measures for driving the enemy's infantry from the Dialah were initiated on the night of the 7th-8th. It appeared as though the enemy had retired, but when the first pontoon was launched it was riddled by rifle and machine gun fire. A second attempt was made with artillery and machine gun co-operation. Five pontoons were launched but they were all stopped by withering fire from concealed machine guns. They floated downstream and were afterwards recovered in the Tigris river with a few wounded survivors on board, and further ferrying enterprises were for the time being deemed impracticable. It now became evident that, although the line of the Dialah was not held strongly, it was well defended by numerous guns and machine guns skilfully sited, and the bright moonlight favoured the defence. To assist in forcing the passage a small column from the force under Lieutenant-General Marshall was ferried across the Tigris in order to enfilade the enemy's position with its guns from the right bank of that river.

During the night of the 8th-9th, after an intense bombardment of the opposite bank, an attempt was made to ferry troops across the Dialah river from four separate points. The main enterprise achieved a qualified success, the most northern ferry being able to work for nearly an hour before it was stopped by very deadly rifle and machine gun fire, and we established a small post on the right bank. When day broke, this party of 70 of the Loyal North Lancashires had driven off two determined counter-attacks, and were still maintaining themselves in a small loop of the river bund. For the next 22 hours, until the passage of the river had been completely forced, the detachment held on gallantly in its isolated position under constant close fire from the surrounding buildings, trenches and gardens, being subjected to reverse as well as enfilade fire from distant points along the right bank.

33. On the 8th a bridge was constructed across the Tigris, half a mile below Bawi, and the cavalry followed by a portion of Lieutenant-General Cobbe's force crossed to the right bank in order to drive the enemy from positions which our aeroplanes reported that he had occupied about Shawa Khan, and north-west of that place, covering Baghdad from the south and south-west. The advance of our troops was much impeded by numerous ditches and water-cuts which had to be ramped to render them passable. During the forenoon of the 9th, Shawa Khan was occupied without much opposition and aeroplanes reported another position one and a half miles to the north-west and some six miles south of Baghdad as strongly held. Our attack against this developed later from the south and south-west in an endeavour to turn the enemy's right flank. The cavalry, which at first had been operating on our left flank, withdrew later as the horses needed water, but our infantry were still engaged before this position when darkness fell, touch with the enemy being kept up by means of patrols and the advance was resumed as soon as indications of his withdrawal were noticed.

On the morning of the 10th our troops were again engaged with the Turkish rearguard within three miles of Baghdad and our cavalry patrols reached a point two miles west of Baghdad Railway Station, where they were checked by the enemy's fire. A gale and blinding dust storm limited vision to a few yards, and under these conditions reconnaissance and co-ordination of movements became difficult. The dry wind and dust and the absence of water away from the river added greatly to the discomfort of the troops and animals. About midnight patrols reported the enemy to be retiring. The dust storm was still raging, but following the Decauville railway as a guide our troops occupied Baghdad Railway Station at 5.55 A.M. and it was ascertained that the enemy on the right bank had retired upstream of Baghdad. Troops detailed in advance occupied the city, and the cavalry moved on Kadhimain, some four miles north-west of Baghdad, where they secured some prisoners.

34. On the left bank of the Tigris Lieutenant-General Marshall had during the 9th elaborated preparations for forcing the passage of the Dialah. At 4 A.M. on the 10th the crossing began at two points a mile apart and met with considerable opposition, but by 7 A.M. the East Lancashires and Wiltshires were across and had linked up with the detachment of Loyal North Lancashires which had so heroically held its ground there. Motor lighters carrying infantry to attack the enemy's right flank above the mouth of the Dialah grounded lower down the river and took no part in the operation. The bridge across the Dialah was completed by noon and our troops pushing steadily on drove the enemy from the riverside villages of Saidah, Dibaiyi and Qararah—the latter strongly defended with machine guns—and finally faced the enemy's last position covering Baghdad along the Tel Muhammad Ridge. These operations had resulted in the capture of 800 prisoners and a large quantity of arms, ammunition and equipment, whilst severe loss had been inflicted on the enemy in killed and wounded, over 300 of his dead being found by our troops.

During the night of the 10th-11th close touch with the enemy was maintained by patrols, and at 1-30 A.M. on the 11th it was reported that the Turks were retiring. The Tel Muhammad position was at once occupied and patrols pushed beyond it, but contact with the enemy was lost in the dust storm. Early on the 11th Lieutenant-General Marshall advanced rapidly on Baghdad and entered the city amid manifestations of satisfaction on the part of the inhabitants. A state of anarchy had existed for some hours, Kurds and Arabs looting the bazaars and setting fire indiscriminately at various points. Infantry guards provided for in advance were however soon on the spot, order was restored without difficulty, and the British flag hoisted over the city. In the afternoon the gunboat flotilla, proceeding upstream in 'line ahead' formation, anchored off the British Residency, and the two forces under Lieutenant-Generals Marshall and Cobbe provided for the security of the approaches to the city being disposed one on either bank of the river. For over a fortnight before we entered Baghdad the enemy had been removing stores and articles of military value, and destroying property which he could not remove, but an immense quantity of booty, part damaged, part undamaged, remained. This included guns, machine guns, rifles, ammunition, machinery, railway workshops, railway material, rolling stock, ice and soda-water plant, pipes, pumps, cranes, winches, signal and telegraph equipment, and hospital accessories. In the Arsenal were found among some cannon of considerable antiquity all the guns (rendered useless by General Townshend) which fell into the enemy's hands at the capitulation of Kut in April 1916.

THE OPERATIONS SUBSEQUENT TO THE FALL OF BAGHDAD.

From March 12th to 31st.

35. With the near approach of the flood season it was now necessary to obtain control of the river bunds upstream of the city, and Yahudie and Kaisirin on the left bank of the Tigris, 20 and 28 miles respectively above Baghdad, were consequently occupied on the 13th and 14th. On the right bank of the Tigris the retreating enemy had entrenched a strong position south of Mushaidie Railway Station, some 20 miles north of Baghdad. Lieutenant-General Cobbe was entrusted with the mission of securing the bunds on this bank, and on the night of the 13th-14th a column marched from Baghdad and reached Tadjive station by daybreak on the 14th. The Turkish position was some seven miles in extent, extending from the river in a north-easterly direction towards the railway which runs due north and south. The western flank rested on successive lines of sandhills, which lie on both sides of the railway line, whilst east of the railway the defensive system centred in two dominant heights, linked to each other and to the river by a series of trenches, nalas and irrigation cuts. In front lay a bare flat plain, whilst undulating ground behind gave the enemy concealment for manœuvre and cover for reserves. It was decided to attack the Turkish right flank with the whole force, as such a movement aimed directly at the enemy's railhead and general reserve would turn the main position east of the railway.

Our troops advanced on both sides of the railway supported by artillery barrage, whilst the cavalry operating on the western flank took the enemy's position in enfilade and in reverse with rifle and machine gun fire. Communication was maintained with our gunboats which co-operated by shelling points in the Turkish line. Ridge after ridge was captured in spite of infantry and artillery fire, which was sometimes intense, until the Black Watch and Gurkhas by a brilliant charge carried the main position, inflicting severe casualties on the enemy. Fighting continued after nightfall and at Mushaidie Station the enemy made his last stand, but the Black Watch and Gurkhas rushed the station at midnight and pursued the enemy for half a mile beyond.

The enemy's flight was now so rapid that touch was not obtained again, and on the 16th our aeroplanes reported stragglers over a depth of 20 miles, the nearest being 25 miles north of Mushaidie. These operations had involved continuous marching and stiff fighting, almost without a break, for two nights and a day, in which our troops displayed fine endurance and determination.

36. On the 14th a post was established on the right bank of the Dialah, opposite Baqubah, 30 miles north-east of Baghdad, which was held by the enemy. On the night of the 17th-18th a column effected a surprise crossing over the Dialah five miles below Baqubah, and our troops entered the town the following morning, inflicting some casualties on the Turkish detachment and capturing some prisoners and stores. Baqubah is the centre of a district rich in supplies and its occupation was essential as a preliminary to further operations to assist our Russian Allies, who were advancing through Persia by way of Kermanshah and Kasr-i-Shirin, with the 13th Turkish Corps falling back on Kifri before them.

37. On the 19th our troops occupied Felujah, 35 miles west of Baghdad, on the Euphrates, driving out the Turkish garrison which retired up the right bank of the Euphrates. The occupation of Felujah, with Nasariyah already in our possession, gave us control over the middle Euphrates from both ends.

38. The arrival of our Allies at Khanikin was now momentarily expected, and a column was concentrated at Baqubah with the object of holding the enemy's retreating columns to their ground till such time as the Russians could come up or alternatively of inflicting loss on them should they weaken their front and endeavour to cross the Dialah. This column moved out on the 20th and occupied Shahraban on the 23rd, the enemy having retired on the previous night. A few prisoners and large supplies of grain were captured. Five miles to the north-east of Shahraban lies a commanding ridge of Jebel Hamrin where the enemy held a strong position covering Kizil Robat and the road to Khanikin, and here our troops were actively engaged with him from the 24th until the end of the month.

On the right bank of the Dialah the enemy also held a position along the Jebel Hamrin about Deli Abbas and Lambaral covering the approaches to the Kifri road. The cavalry was instructed to work up the right bank of the Dialah so as to co-operate with our troops on the left bank in obstructing the retirement of the Turkish forces.

On the left bank of the Dialah our progress was slow owing to the difficult nature of the country, which is intersected by canals and deep dalas, some of them full of water, but on the night of the 24th-25th part of the force moved forward to test the strength of the enemy in our front. By daybreak our infantry had established itself in the foothills and the advance to the main ridge began. Hostile piquets were driven in and the lower crest of the hills was gained, but beyond this another crest rose 2,500 yards away and the intervening country was much broken with hillocks and ravines. The advance continued towards the line held by the enemy about 1,000 yards north of the captured crest, but as he now began to show considerable strength it was deemed inadvisable to press the advance further. The subsequent withdrawal of the column was followed up closely by the enemy, but several strong attacks were beaten off and an attempted charge against our right flank by his cavalry was dispersed by rifle and gun fire. During the withdrawal the enemy, who necessarily came out into the open, suffered heavily and the offensive enterprise of his infantry slackened visibly as the day wore on. The Manchesters specially distinguished themselves by their gallantry and steadiness on this occasion.

The advance of our Allies had been delayed in a difficult pass east of Khanikin, mainly owing to weather conditions, and in consequence up to the close of the period under review we had not gained touch with them, but our column still maintained its position, harassing the Turkish retreat and securing a number of prisoners.

39. About the 26th there were indications that a converging movement was being made by part of the 13th Corps down the right bank of the Dialah from

Deli Abbas and by the 18th Corps along the left bank of the Tigris from Shatt-el-Adhaim against our troops in the vicinity of Deltawa, apparently with the intention of assisting the withdrawal of the 18th Corps from before the Russians. A column was accordingly concentrated at Khan Nahrwan to deal with the Shatt-el-Adhaim force, whilst the cavalry contained the Deli Abbas force. On the 27th the enemy made a determined attempt to move down the right bank of the Dialah towards Deltawa but our cavalry, skilfully handled in some difficult ground, resisted the enemy's advance from successive positions, inflicting severe losses, and finally checked the forward movement that evening. Next day the enemy fell back towards Deli Abbas followed up by our cavalry.

The Turkish force from Shatt-el-Adhaim held an entrenched position between Dogameh and Himma, and during the night of the 28th-29th our troops deployed for attack in suitable positions. The attack was well pressed from the east and north till about midday, when the mirage became so bad that artillery support was impracticable. Later in the evening it was renewed, and in spite of fierce counter-attacks we secured the greater part of the enemy's position, although he still held a few trenches when darkness fell. His losses had evidently been severe, as we buried over 190 bodies, and we took many prisoners, whilst the enemy retired during the night behind the Shatt-el-Adhaim.

The total number of prisoners taken during the period December 13th to March 31st was 7,921.

OPERATIONS ON OTHER FRONTS.

August 28th to March 31st.

40. The period with which this despatch deals was devoid of important incidents on the Karun and Bushire fronts. On the Euphrates front in the early part of September, guerilla warfare was commenced against our camps and patrols round As-Sahilan. Immediate steps were taken to crush this hostile concentration before it became formidable, and on September 11th a column moved out from Nasariyah which destroyed the towers and fortifications of As-Sahilan. Our comparatively small column was opposed by some 5,000 enemy irregulars who fought boldly, but the steady behaviour of our troops gave them no opening and before midday the enemy withdrew, having lost as it was afterwards ascertained 436 killed and some 800 wounded. This prompt lesson had an excellent effect round Nasariyah and no further hostilities of any importance occurred during the period under review. The only Turkish regular detachment on the Euphrates was a small one at Samawa and when Baghdad fell this detachment retreated to Felujah, whence it was subsequently ejected by our troops from Baghdad.

41. On the lines of communications during the same period the daily routine of our defence troops was only occasionally broken by raids, which were suitably dealt with by our posts and mobile columns.

42. Owing to the attention drawn to the Tigris front by the severe fighting in progress there, the situation had remained comparatively quiet. Considerable progress however was made in many ways. This was especially the case of Nasariyah, where much was done to develop the administration of the town and the surrounding country, whilst at Ahwaz various projects were carried into effect which placed our position in that neighbourhood on a more satisfactory basis. Considerable credit is due to the commanders on the Euphrates, Karun and Bushire fronts and on the lines of communication defences for the manner in which they maintained peaceful conditions in their neighbourhood and the efficiency of their troops.

SUMMARY.

43. The above is a brief record of the operations carried out during seven months by the army in Mesopotamia; the first three and a half months a period of preparation, the last three and a half months one of action

During the latter the fighting has been strenuous and continuous and the strain imposed upon all ranks, both at the front and on the lines of communication, severe. But they have responded whole-heartedly to every call that has been made upon them and their reward has been the measure of their success. The nature of the operations has been as varied as it has been complex, and the training of the troops has been tested, first in the fierce hand to hand fighting in trench warfare round Kut and Sannaiyat, and, later, in the more open battles which characterised the operations in the Dahra Bend, the passage of the Tigris, the advance on Baghdad, and the subsequent actions. From this ordeal they have emerged with a proud record and have dealt the enemy a series of stinging blows, the full significance of which will not be easily effaced. British and Indian troops working side by side have vied with each other in their efforts to close with the enemy and all ranks have been imbued throughout with that offensive spirit which is the soldier's finest jewel.

The operations have involved long hours and strenuous work, as well as great responsibilities, for commanders and their staffs, but by sheer hard work and a determination to succeed they have risen superior to every obstacle and compelled success.

As regards the regimental commanders, and the regimental officers, warrant and non-commissioned officers and men, it is not easy to do justice to their sterling performances. In spite of the youth and consequent lack of training and experience among some of their officers and non-commissioned officers, leadership has never faltered, whilst all ranks by their heroism, endurance, and devotion to duty have almost daily affirmed their superiority over their opponents in the bitterest struggles. Each difficulty encountered seemed but to steel the determination to overcome it. It may then be truly said that not only have the traditions of these ancient British and Indian regiments been in safe keeping in the hands of their present representatives, but that these have even added fresh lustre to the records on their time-honoured scrolls. Where fighting was almost daily in progress it is difficult to particularise, but the fierce encounters west of the Hai, the passages of the Tigris and Dialah and the final storming of the Sannaiyat position may perhaps be mentioned as typical of all that is best in the British and Indian soldier.

For the success achieved the fighting spirit of the troops has been mainly responsible, but the dash and gallantry of individuals and units have been welded into a powerful weapon by that absolute sympathy which has existed between both services and all branches.

To the Royal Navy the thanks of the Army are due for the thorough way in which they carried out somewhat restricted but none the less important duties during the earlier part of this period. The fact that the enemy barred the way at Sannaiyat necessitated their work being at first limited to assisting in the protection of our water communications, co-operating with our detachment on the Euphrates front and occasionally shelling the enemy's position at Sannaiyat, where the Naval Kite Balloon Section rendered good service in observation work. Their opportunity came later, when after the passage of the Tigris they pressed forward in pursuit and rendered the brilliant and substantial services described above.

The work of the cavalry has been difficult. The flat terrain intersected with nalas obstructed movement without providing cover and the state of the country after heavy rains made progress even for short distances laborious. The absence of water, too, away from the river, limited its radius of action. Nevertheless its reconnaissance work and the blows delivered against the enemy's communications helped in no small way to bring about that dissipation of his forces which was so essential to our success, and the pressure applied after the passage of the Tigris to the retreating enemy was instrumental in completing his final rout.

The unison in which artillery, infantry, machine gun corps and air service worked has been admirable. The combination of irresistible gallantry and devotion to duty evinced by the Infantry and Machine Gun Corps was equalled by the determination of the artillery to render their comrades the closest support. Batteries were pushed forward to points within effective range of the enemy's riflemen, and the forward observing officers and their detachments, in order to obtain the best results for their guns in this flat and difficult country, were always to be found with the leading lines of infantry. The intense but methodical fire of our guns formed a screen of shells under which our infantry advanced boldly, whilst the accuracy of our gun fire was largely assisted by the excellent observation work done by the Royal Flying Corps. The activity of the latter throughout the operations was unbounded in co-operation with artillery, air combats, reconnaissance, raiding, bombing and photography. The Royal Flying Corps at the outset wrested the command of the air from the enemy and subsequently by skill and ceaseless energy maintained its superiority, in spite of the heavy strain thrown on personnel and machines.

Closely allied to the infantry throughout the fighting and especially during the period of trench warfare were the Field companies, Sapper and Miner companies and Pioneer battalions. Their work was as daring as it was tireless, and was of inestimable value in planning, supplementing and improving by their technical knowledge the work done by the infantry.

Owing to the conditions under which fighting has taken place a heavy strain has been placed upon the Signal Service and Telegraph Department and especially during the rapid advance after the passage of the Tigris. That the communications of the Army were so well maintained testifies to the efficiency and high sense of duty among all ranks in both branches. Their work, especially in the case of those with advanced formations, was frequently carried out under conditions of considerable danger, in which conspicuous gallantry was frequently needed and displayed.

The zeal and scientific knowledge evinced by the Field Survey Department is best exemplified by the fact that since the commencement of the campaign accurate surveys of an area of over 13,000 square miles of country have been produced, which have been of the greatest value to the Army.

44. One of the features peculiar to this campaign is the length of the lines of communications which we have necessarily had to adopt. In consequence the difficulties by which the administrative services and departments, both in the field and on the lines of communications have been confronted have been exceptional. The success or failure of the operations has so largely depended upon their efficiency that a substantial measure of credit is due to the directors and their assistants and all ranks of those services and departments who by capable methods and unwearied energy have surmounted all obstacles and regularly met the needs of the fighting troops with ample supplies, munitions and stores, and have been the means of providing every comfort obtainable for the sick and wounded.

As in the case of the fighting troops, the interdependence of these services, and departments has necessitated the closest co-operation and equally successful has been the result. We have relied upon three classes of transport:—river, rail and road; the latter being further sub-divided into motor and animal transport. The work in all cases has been peculiarly heavy. The newly formed Inland Water Transport Directorate had first to fill its ranks and then develop its organisation and provide for its many indispensable requirements, but the personnel, making light of these very real obstacles to rapid progress, worked unceasingly with the result that night and day an endless chain of river-craft passed up and down the river, thereby assuring the maintenance of the troops at the front.

The rainy season was one of continuous anxiety for the railways (especially as regards the light line between Sheikh Sa'ad and Atab) and the road transport. Every ingenuity possible was, however, brought to bear on the problem, and vigour and determination on the part of all concerned once more carried the day.

To the Directorate of Port Administration and Conservancy much credit is due for the development of the Port of Basrah on an efficient basis and for the method and smoothness with which the vast fleet of steamers which has served this expedition has been handled, as well as for the provision of many facilities in connection therewith. The monthly statistics bear eloquent testimony to the efficiency of this department.

The excellent work done by the Director of Sea Transport and his assistants also deserves more than passing recognition in view of the amount of shipping involved.

Our long line of communications has complicated the delivery of supplies and ordnance stores at the front considerably. Although large stocks of food-stuffs, munitions and stores were available at the base early in the autumn, accurate calculations and ceaseless activity on the part of all ranks were required to ensure their delivery to the troops punctually and in due proportion. Difficult as the problem was whilst the Army was sedentary in the vicinity of Sannaiyat and Kut, it became more and more complex as the advance proceeded. The strain on the personnel was increasingly severe, and the fact that throughout this period the troops at the front were well maintained in all respects constitutes a fine record for the Supply Service and Ordnance Department.

In dealing with the problems at the base and on the lines of communication, the responsibilities of the Works Directorate have been very heavy, but the many problems have been resolutely handled with that resourcefulness and success which are so characteristic of the Royal Engineers. Road making, water supply, and building and reclamation work at the base alone have reached vast dimensions and have demanded constant attention and thorough organisation.

Since the termination of the hot weather the health of the troops has been uniformly good, and our well-equipped hospitals have been more than adequate to meet the calls made upon them by sick patients. Throughout the operations the evacuation of the wounded was carried out on model lines, and the arrangements made for the comfort and rapid transfer of patients from the field units to the hospitals on the lines of communication reflect much credit on those concerned. Whilst those on the lines of communication have done their share efficiently, the work of the Medical Services at the front has maintained its high reputation. During the operations the strain thrown upon all has been heavy and the courage and devotion to duty displayed by the personnel on the battlefield has only been equalled by the zeal and energy of those in the field units. In this connection the valuable services rendered by the consulting surgeons and physicians demand special mention, whilst the thanks of the Army are due to the nursing sisters for their indefatigable services in tending the sick and wounded. These ladies have by their devoted work under difficult conditions of climate and surroundings set an example of which they may well be proud.

The wastage of horses during continuous operations under trying conditions has necessarily been large, but the Remount Department has, though assisted by few facilities and faced by many obstacles, by practical methods, foresight and adaptability, successfully met the demands made upon it.

Sickness and battle casualties have placed a strain upon the resources of the Veterinary Department which has been met by wise anticipation and considerable efficiency.

The chaplains—always to the fore where danger calls—have been untiring in their attention to the spiritual needs of the troops and in their ministrations to the sick and wounded, not only in the field ambulances and hospitals, but also on the battlefield.

The Postal Service has been handicapped by the long distances to be covered and by the fact that other articles requiring carriage claimed precedence in order of urgency. It has had heavy mails to deal with and its duties have been well carried out.

45. I should like further to express my thanks to those individuals and organisations which, though not strictly military, have rendered valuable services to the Army. Foremost amongst these I would mention the British Red Cross Society, which has worthily maintained its splendid record throughout this campaign. The sterling work performed by its personnel, and its bountiful provision of motor launches, motor ambulances, and gifts, have been the means of alleviating much suffering.

The ceaseless labours of the organisers and committees of the various War Gifts Societies both in England and in India, and the liberality of the subscribers to these funds have contributed largely to the comfort and well-being of the troops, especially in regard to their recreations, and our heartfelt gratitude is due to them, all.

The officials and personnel of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company have displayed courtesy and willingness to assist and have given us facilities which have been of great value to our troops.

The Young Men's Christian Association has been indefatigable in its exertions to enliven and improve the surroundings of the troops, and has with my approval opened additional branches throughout the country which have been immensely appreciated.

46. The thanks of the Army are due for the prompt manner in which our necessarily large demands have been sent overseas from England, India and Egypt. This factor has contributed in no small measure to the successes achieved.

47. During the operations the commanders have had great responsibility and have justified fully their selection for the posts they hold.

Lieutenant-General W. R. Marshall, K.C.B., has commanded his troops with determination and judgment. His quiet imperturbable manner, his coolness and decision inspire confidence among his subordinates, whilst his bold methods and intelligent appreciation and rapid execution of orders have been of the greatest value.

Lieutenant-General A. S. Cobbe, V.C., K.C.B., D.S.O., has commanded with marked ability. Always methodical and thorough in his plans, he brings to bear upon their execution a complete knowledge of the details of his profession. These qualities, added to a thorough grasp of the possibilities and limitations of the various arms, have enabled him to make the most of his opportunities wherever severe fighting has been involved.

48. To my Staff at General Headquarters and on the lines of communication (including the lines of communication defences) as well as to the technical advisers attached, my warmest thanks are due for the whole-hearted and vigorous support which I have received from them throughout, and for the efficient manner in which they have discharged their functions.

Major-General A. W. Money, K.C.B., C.S.I., Chief of the General Staff, has carried out his responsible duties most competently. He has not spared himself in giving me every assistance, and his knowledge of Indian and indeed Eastern conditions has frequently been of great value to me.

Of Major-General G. F. MacMunn, K.C.B., D.S.O., Inspector General of Communications, it is not too much to say that his responsibilities have been immense. The repeated calls made on him by me during these protracted operations have never once failed to elicit a satisfactory response, and the thoroughness and elasticity of his organisation was never better exemplified than in the efficiency maintained on the lines of communication during the rapid advance on Baghdad, and subsequent to our arrival at that city. Optimistic by nature, he readily brushes aside obstacles whether imaginary or real.

49. This despatch would not be complete without a reference to the valuable services rendered to the Army by Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Percy Cox, K.C.S.I., K.C.I.E., and the political officers working under his direction. His advice has been invaluable to me on many occasions, and the tranquil state of the country from Baghdad to Basrah at the present time is in itself an additional testimony to his already well-established reputation.

50. A list giving the names of those officers, warrant and non-commissioned officers and men, whose services are deemed deserving of special mention, will follow.

(2) Subject to the foregoing provisions of this section, the licensing authority may grant licenses under this Act to such persons as it thinks fit, and on such terms and conditions and subject to such restrictions as it may determine.

6. (1) If the owner of a cinematograph uses the same or allows it to be used, or if the owner or occupier of any place allows that place to be used, in contravention of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder, or of the conditions and restrictions upon or subject to which any license has been granted under this Act, he shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees and, in the case of a continuing offence, with a further fine of one hundred rupees for each day during which the offence continues, and his license (if any) shall be liable to be revoked by the licensing authority.

(2) If any person is convicted of an offence punishable under this Act committed by him in respect of any film the convicting Court may further direct that the film shall be forfeited to His Majesty.

7. (1) The Governor General in Council shall, by notification in the Gazette of India, constitute as many authorities as he may think fit for the purposes of examining and certifying films as suitable for public exhibition.

(2) If any such authority after examination considers that a film is suitable for public exhibition it shall cause the film to be marked in the prescribed manner.

(3) If the authority is of opinion that a film is not suitable for public exhibition, it shall inform the person applying for the certificate of its decision, and such person may, within thirty days from the date of such decision, appeal for a re-consideration of the matter by the Local Government whose decision shall be final.

8. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules for the purposes of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, rules under this section may provide for—

- (a) the regulation of cinematograph exhibitions for securing the public safety.
- (b) the procedure of the authorities constituted for examining and certifying films as suitable for public exhibition and all matters ancillary thereto, and the fees to be levied by those authorities; and
- (c) any other matter which by this Act is to be prescribed.

9. The Local Government may by order in writing exempt any cinematograph exhibition or class of cinematograph exhibitions from the provisions of this Act.

10. The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, apply all or any of the provisions of this Act, with such modifications and alterations as he considers necessary to adapt the applied provisions to the subject-matter, to any other class of dramatic or spectacular performances.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill is designed to ensure proper control of cinematograph exhibitions with particular regard to the safety of those attending them; and to prevent the presentation to the public of improper or objectionable films. The existing law of the country contains certain scattered provisions affecting such exhibitions and certain local enactments also bear on the subject; but the rapid growth in the popularity of the cinematograph and the increasing number of such exhibitions in India have rendered these provisions inadequate for the protection of the public from indecent or otherwise objectionable representations. Further the especial danger from fire which attends cinematograph exhibitions, as has been illustrated by terrible catastrophes due to this cause in other countries, rendered it important to secure, in the interests of the safety of spectators, a proper regard to the structural conditions of the premises utilised.

2. The Bill accordingly provides that no exhibition shall be given except in accordance with the conditions of a license granted by the prescribed authority. This license is intended to ensure that the intentions of the Act are complied with and that adequate precautions are taken for the safety of persons attending the exhibition which it covers. The Bill also provides for the constitution of an authority which will be required to pass all films intended for exhibition in this country and which will have power to refuse the necessary certificate in the case of any film, the production of which in public is open to objection for the reasons already given.

3. The Bill includes the ordinary rule-making provision and enables the local Governments to exempt any cinematograph exhibition or class of cinematograph exhibition from the provisions of the law. Under clause 10 the Governor General in Council is empowered to apply the Act in whole or part with such modifications or alterations as may be necessary to any other class of dramatic or spectacular performances. Finally it makes provision for the punishment of offences against the Act or the rules made thereunder.

The following Bill was introduced in the Indian Legislative Council on the 5th September 1917:—

No. 12 OF 1917.

A Bill to restrict the transfer of Post Office 5-year Cash Certificates and to provide for the payment of Certificates standing in the name of deceased persons.

WHEREAS it is expedient to restrict the transfer of Post Office 5-year Cash Certificates and to provide for the payment of Certificates standing in the name of deceased persons; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Post Office Cash Certificates Act, 1917.

2. (1) Notwithstanding any provision in any enactment or any rule of law for the time being in force to the contrary, no transfer (whether made before or after the commencement of this Act) of a Post Office 5-year Cash Certificate shall be valid without the previous consent in writing of the Post Master General for the area in which the post office of issue is situate.

Prohibition of transfer of Post Office 5-year Cash Certificates without the consent of the Post Master General.

(2) In this section "transfer" means a transfer inter vivos and does not include a transfer by operation of law.

3 (1) If a person dies and is at the time of his death the holder of a Post Office 5-year Cash Certificate, payment of the sum for the time being due on such Certificate may be made in the manner provided in the Government Savings Banks Act, 1873, for the payment of deposits belonging to the estates of deceased persons, and the provisions of sections 4 to 9 of the said Act shall apply accordingly as if the holder of such Certificate were a depositor in a Government Savings Bank and the sum for the time being due on such Certificate were a deposit in such a Bank:

Provided that the powers conferred by the said provisions on the Secretary of a Government Savings Bank shall be exercisable by the Post Master General for the area within which the post office of issue of such Certificate is situate:

Provided further that, where in any one case payment is to be made of Certificates issued from more post offices than one, the said powers shall be exercisable by the Post Master General for the area in which any of the said post offices is situate.

(2) Nothing in sub section (1) shall be deemed to require any person to accept payment of the amount due on a Post Office 5-year Cash Certificate before the same has reached maturity.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The form of Post Office Cash Certificates contains the following inscription printed thereon: 'Not transferable except with the permission of the Postmaster General', and non-transferability has from the first been a condition attaching to these Certificates. This restriction, however, in the absence of specific legislation, would not be operative against the general right of transfer of all actionable claims conferred by section 130 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882. The present Bill provides for the validation of the above-mentioned restriction, except where the Cash Certificates form part of the estates of deceased persons, or are necessarily transferable by operation of law, e.g., as in the case of the holder's insolvency. Opportunity has at the same time been taken to place the payment of Cash Certificates belonging to the estates of deceased persons on the same footing as Government Savings Bank deposits forming part of the estates of such persons.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Indian Legislative Council on the 5th September 1917 :—

No. 13 of 1917.

A Bill to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1910 and the Indian Paper Currency (Temporary amendment) Act, 1917.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1910 and the Indian Paper Currency (Temporary Amendment) Act, 1917; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and duration. 1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Paper Currency (Amendment) Act, 1917.

(2) Sections 6 and 7 shall have operation only during the continuance of the present war, and for a period of six months thereafter.

2. Section 3 of the Indian Paper Currency (Temporary Amendment) Act, 1917, shall be construed as if for the words "three hundred millions" the words "four hundred and twenty millions" were substituted.

3. In clause (a) of section 2 of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1910 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act) after the words

"value of" the words "one rupee, two and a half rupees", shall be inserted.

4. In section 3 of the said Act, the words "not being less than five rupees" shall be omitted.

5. In section 15 of the said Act, for the words "five rupees" wherever they occur the words "one rupee" shall be substituted.

6. In section 19 of the said Act after the words "the Governor General in Council" the words "including any gold coin or bullion held on behalf of the Governor General in Council by or under the control of the Government of any part of His Majesty's Dominions" shall be inserted.

7. In section 21 of the said Act after the words "the Secretary of State for India in Council" where they last occur, the words "or to the Government of any part of His Majesty's Dominions or from any such Government to the Governor General in Council" shall be inserted.

8. In clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 21 of the said Act, the words "and signs (not being less than five rupees)" shall be omitted.

9 The Indian Paper Currency (Amendment) Ordinance, 1917, is hereby repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

(1) The Indian Paper Currency (Amendment) Ordinance, 1917, raised the maximum limit for the issue of currency notes against British Treasury Bills from 30 crores, at which figure it was fixed by section 3 of the Indian Paper Currency (Temporary Amendment) Act, 1917, to 42 crores. The Ordinance, which was issued in April last, ceases, however, to be in force six months after its promulgation, and, as it is desirable to retain the powers of additional investment which it gives, section 2 of the present Bill provides by an amendment of section 3 of Act XI of 1917 for their continuance for the period of the war and for six months thereafter.

(2) The existing provisions of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1910, permit the issue of currency notes against gold coin or bullion only when such coin or bullion is held by the Secretary of State in the United Kingdom or by the Government of India in India, or is in the course of transmission between the Government of India and the Secretary of State: or in other words it is only under these conditions that it can at present form part of the Paper Currency Reserve. Clauses 6 and 7 of the present Bill extend these provisions by providing that gold held in any of the British Dominions or in transit between a British Dominion and India may be treated as part of the Reserve.

The main object of these amendments is to enable the Government of India to obtain the immediate benefit of gold acquired on behalf of the Paper Currency Reserve in Australia. But the clauses have been framed so as to provide for the possible acquisition of gold in other Dominions, and they also permit the issue of notes against gold bullion in the Paper Currency Reserve in transit from India to Australia for the purpose of being minted. They will be in force only for the period of the war and for six months thereafter.

(3) Clauses 3, 4, 5 and 8 of the Bill provide for the issue of currency notes of the value of one rupee and two and a half rupees. The notes will be "universal" notes and will therefore be legal tender throughout British India, and cashable at all currency offices.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Indian Legislative Council on the 5th September 1917 :—

No. 14 of 1917.

A Bill to restrict the transfer of ships registered in British India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to restrict the transfer of ships registered in British India; It is hereby enacted as follows :

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Short Title and duration of Ships Restriction Act, 1917 ;

(2) It shall remain in force during the continuance of the present war, and for three years thereafter.

Interpretations.

2. In this Act :—

(1) (a) "British subject" means a person who—

(i) is a natural born British subject within the meaning of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914, or

(ii) holds a certificate of naturalization granted under any Act of Parliament, or

(iii) holds a certificate of naturalization granted under the Indian Naturalization Act, 1852,

(b) "foreign-controlled company" includes any company, firm or association or body of individuals whether incorporated or not—

(i) which is not established in and subject to the laws of some part of His Majesty's dominions or of some British Protectorate, and has not its principal place of business therein, or

(ii) of which the majority of the directors or the partners or persons occupying the position of directors or partners by whatever name called are not British subjects, or

(iii) of which the majority of the voting power or the predominant interest is in the hands of persons who are not British subjects or of persons who exercise their voting power or hold their interest directly or indirectly on behalf of persons who are not British subjects, or

(iv) of which the control is by any other means whatever in the hands of persons who are not British subjects, or

(v) of which the managing body is a foreign-controlled company, or the majority of the managing body are appointed by a foreign-controlled company.

(c) "interest" includes the interest of a mortgagee, and

(d) "persons qualified to be owners of British ships" has the same meaning as in section 1 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894.

(2) All provisions referring to a ship shall be read as referring also to a share in a ship.

3. No interest in a British ship registered in British India under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, shall without the previous consent in writing of the Governor General in Council be transferred to a foreign-controlled company or to persons other than persons qualified to be owners of British ships.

4. Whoever makes or attempts to make or abets the making of any transfer in contravention of the provisions of this Act, shall be punishable with imprisonment of either description which may extend to two years or with fine or with both.

5. For the purpose of determining whether any person, who is or who is a particular in certain cases owner or mortgagee of a British ship, is or represents a foreign-controlled company, the Governor General in Council may require any such person or in the case of a company, firm or association, the secretary or other officer thereof to furnish such particulars as he may think necessary, and such person or officer shall be bound to furnish the particulars so required.

6. Where any person having an interest in a British ship registered in British India ceases to be a British subject or becomes a foreign-controlled company, such interest shall be liable to forfeiture.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The British Ships (Transfer Restriction) Act, 1915, as extended in 1916, prohibits the transfer or mortgage of British Ships or shares therein to foreign-controlled companies, save in cases approved by the Board of Trade, and will remain in force for a period of three years after the termination of the war. It does not apply to ships registered in India or in the self-governing Dominions.

2. At the time of the enactment of the British statute the Government of India had no special reasons for considering that action on these lines was required in India. But the increasing restrictions which it has been necessary to impose upon British ship-owners have greatly added to the risk of owners attempting to escape from such restrictions by transferring ships to foreign registry. It has now, therefore, been decided to take action in India, as in the Dominions, to supplement the British statute. The measure will be applied to the case of British ships registered in India under the British Merchant Shipping Act of 1894, but not to vessels registered under the Indian Registration of Ships Act, X of 1941, which is used principally for the registration of sailing craft. The Bill purports to give effect to this decision and like the English enactment will have effect only during the continuance of the war and until three years after its termination.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to establish and incorporate a University at Patna was presented to the Indian Legislative Council on the 5th September 1917 :—

We, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to establish and incorporate a Paper No. I.—From the Hon'ble Mr. J. P. Thompson, I.C.S., Chief Secretary to the Government of the Punjab, dated the 27th December 1916, and enclosures; from G. A. Thomas, Esq. Secretary to the Government of Bombay, dated the 6th January 1917, and enclosures; from ditto ditto, dated 17th January 1917.

Paper No. II.—From the Hon'ble Mr. H. McPherson, I.C.S., Chief Secretary to the Government of Bihar and Orissa, dated the 2nd January 1917, and enclosures; from ditto ditto, dated the 11th January 1917 and enclosure.

Paper No. III.—From L. S. S. O'Malley, Esq., I.C.S., Secretary to the Government of Bengal, dated the 16th February 1917, and enclosures.

University at Patna was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

2. The revised Bill annexed to this report is the result of lengthy deliberations by which alone we are enabled to submit a unanimous report. We now proceed to outline briefly the main changes of substance we have made in the Bill which was referred to us by the Council.

3. Notwithstanding that there is a considerable body of opinion opposed to this course we have, after considering and giving great weight to the views of those of our colleagues who come from Bihar, included the Diamond Jubilee College, Monghyr, among the external colleges named in the Bill.

4. We have modified the powers of the Chancellor, by the substitution for the provision in the original Bill of a provision based on section 6 (2) of the Benares Hindu University Act, 1915, which we think will confer all necessary powers in regard to the matters with which it deals.

5. We have reduced the term of the Vice-Chancellor's appointment from five to three years, as we think it undesirable that an officer should be appointed in the first instance for so long a period as five years. We also think it desirable that his power of appointing officers and servants should be limited to posts carrying a pay of less than Rs. 200 per month, and that his powers in certain other respects should be modified.

6. We have transposed the provisions dealing with the Senate and the Syndicate, placing those dealing with the Senate first, as we think that arrangement is more suitable having regard to the position which those bodies hold respectively in the University scheme.

7. We have raised the number of ordinary Fellows of the Senate from a minimum of 40 and a maximum of 60 to a minimum of 60 and a maximum of 75. We have provided that the Vice-Chancellor shall be an ex-officio member of the Senate and that the Principal of every college in which instruction is given to a degree standard shall also be an ex-officio member of that body. We have provided for an elected body of fifty ordinary Fellows in the place of the twelve provided by the original Bill. There will thus be a substantial majority of elected Fellows on the Senate as proposed by us. Of these, twenty will be elected by the teaching staffs of the colleges; five will be elected by the graduate teachers of schools in which instruction is given to a standard to be prescribed by the Regulations, and fifteen will be elected by a special electorate of graduates. The remaining ten will be elected by such associations or public bodies as the Chancellor may empower in that behalf. We further lay down in the Bill as revised by us that the Regulations shall provide for the adequate representation on the Senate of all faculties of the University and of persons permanently resident in the Orissa Division.

8. We have declared generally that the Senate is to have entire management and superintendence over the affairs of the University and that it shall exercise all the powers of the University not otherwise provided for. We have indicated in some detail certain powers which we consider should reside in the Senate; and on the other hand we have specified matters in which the Syndicate will have power to act independently subject to review by the Senate on a reference made by not less than six members of the Syndicate jointly. We have had great difficulty in arriving at a satisfactory conclusion as to the distribution of power between these two authorities in view of the considerable difference of opinion among the individual members of the Committee on this point; but we think that the provision in the Bill as revised by us is a reasonable compromise.

9. We have fixed the term of office of the first Syndicate at two years as we think this is sufficient, having regard to the manner in which the first Syndicate will be appointed. We have added the Principal of the Ravenshaw College to the ex-officio members and have provided that all ordinary members of the body shall be elected by the Senate from among its members. As to the constitution of ensuing Syndicates, we have made it a statutory requirement that this body shall contain at least one person permanently resident in the Orissa

Division, not less than seven members of the University staff or the teaching staffs of the colleges, and not less than three other persons who are not following the profession of education. It will be observed that the general control of the University affairs has been transferred from the Syndicate to the Senate in deference to the wishes of those members of the Committee who pressed for this change.

10. We have required the concurrence of the Senate and the Local Government to the admission of educational institutions as colleges. As regards external colleges, teaching to a degree standard, we have provided that the condition as to location in the four particular towns may be dispensed with in any particular case by the direction of the Governor General in Council.

11. Similarly for the deprivation of a college of any of its privileges we have required the concurrent decision of the Senate and the Local Government.

12. As regards clause 11 which enacts that on the commencement of the Act existing privileges granted by other Universities shall be terminated, we have provided that the privileges so terminated shall be deemed to have been granted by the Patna University. We think such a provision is eminently desirable as some provision should be made for the educational institutions whose privileges have been taken away, and to cast on them the onus of applying in the first instance for admission would be to our minds unreasonable.

13. We have altered clause 13 so as to require publication of the accounts of the University in the local official Gazette. We think that publicity of this nature is desirable.

14. We have recast clause 14 which deals with the Regulations, separating those Regulations which under the Bill as revised by us must be made and those which may be made, and we have naturally had to make many consequential alterations in this clause to meet the changes of substance in the Bill which have been agreed to by us. We have further recast the sub-clauses of this section which deal with the manner in which the first Regulations should be made. We need not enter into a detailed account of the changes as they are perfectly clear from the revised Bill.

15. We do not think it necessary to allude in detail to the various drafting changes which we have made in the hope of improving the form of the Bill.

16. The Bill as revised by us is substantially changed from the Bill which was referred to us, and we therefore recommend that it be republished.

17. Our colleagues, Messrs Basu and Sastri, desire that we should insert in our report a statement that they wish it to be recognised that the Bill as revised contains certain provisions, more particularly as to the relations between the Senate and the Syndicate which, though accepted by them for the Patna University, embody principles which they do not consider applicable to Universities in India generally.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday,
1st September 1917.

Burma.—Report not received.

Assam.—The weather is generally seasonable. More rain is wanted for the transplantation of winter rice in Cachar and in the lower Assam Valley. Harvesting of autumn rice is approaching completion. Cutting of jute, manufacture of tea and transplantation of winter rice continue. The outturn of autumn rice, jute and tea and the prospects of other crops are fair to good. Cattle disease is reported from five districts. Prices continue to fall slightly.

Bengal.—During the week light rain fell generally throughout the Province except in some districts of north Bengal. More rain is urgently needed for agricultural operations. Reaping, steeping and washing of jute and harvesting of other autumn crops continue. The outturn is generally good. Transplantation of winter paddy has been almost completed. Weeding continues. Prospects of standing crops are generally promising but more rain is required for their growth. In the eastern districts, however, the abnormal lowness of rivers is causing some apprehension regarding prospects of broadcasted winter paddy. Cattle disease is reported from ten districts. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen by 0.65 per cent. as compared with that of the previous week.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week light to moderate rain was general over the Province. Harvesting of some autumn crops has commenced. Transplantation of paddy still continues but the operation is being retarded for want of sufficient rain in parts of Darbhanga, Monghyr, Bhagalpur, and Purnea. Standing crops are doing well. The price of common rice has risen in one district, fallen in five and remained stationary in the remaining districts as compared with that of the preceding week. The supply of fodder is generally sufficient. Cattle disease is reported from twelve districts. The condition of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa is good.

United Provinces.—The rainfall during the week was again general but more rain is still needed in certain Oudh districts and parts of Ballia and Basti. The condition of standing crops is generally good, though they have been damaged slightly by incessant rain especially in parts of Bundelkhand. Weeding of summer crops and preparation of fields for winter crops still continue. Indigo, millets and early rice are being harvested. Prospects are good. Agricultural stock is doing well, though cattle disease continues. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are almost stationary.

Punjab.—Light or moderate rain has fallen in all the reporting districts. In some districts it has been beneficial but in others it was not required. Sowings of autumn crops have been nearly completed and are normal. The condition of sugarcane, cotton and other standing crops is generally good but in some districts crops on low lands have been damaged by excessive rain. Ploughings for spring crops and sowings of oilseeds have commenced in a few districts. Cattle are healthy and fodder and water for drinking and irrigation purposes are sufficient. In some districts canals are closed owing to heavy rainfall. Stocks of food grains are sufficient. Prices are stationary and generally range between normal and warning rates except those of autumn grains which are in some cases below normal. Price of wheat :—Rawalpindi 9½, Lahore 9½, and Ambala, Ferozepore and Lyallpur 10 seers per rupee.

North-West Frontier Province.—During the week rain fell in Peshawar and Bannu and was useful for sugarcane. Fodder and water are sufficient. The Puharpur canal is running partly. The condition of cattle is good. Prospects of autumn crops are average. Sowings of makki continue in Bannu. Cotton is being picked in the Nowshera tahsil of the Peshawar district with outturn average. The public health is good. The price of wheat in Peshawar is 9½ and in Dera Ismail Khan 10½ seers per rupee.

Jammu.—Heavy rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 12 and maize from 13 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is fair. Fodder is sufficient. There is no cattle disease.

Kashmir.—The rainfall during the week was insufficient. Standing crops are in fair condition. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are sufficient. Prices are average.

Rajputana.—General and excessive rain fell during the week. A break is badly needed. Standing crops are in good condition but they have been damaged considerably in the eastern Rajputana States. Agricultural operations have been retarded. The condition of cattle is fair to good. Water and fodder are ample. Prices are generally stationary.

Central India.—The rainfall during the week was general. The principal falls were 5 inches in Alirajpur, 4 inches in Barwani, 3 inches in Indore city, Kannod, Dhar and Jhabua, and 1 inch in Mehidpur, Garot, Bundelkhand, Jaora, Dewas, Jobat and Manpur. The fall was insufficient in Alirajpur. Autumn crops are being weeded except in Gwalior and Malwa and in place in Indore where agricultural operations have been suspended owing to heavy rains. Lands for spring crops are being prepared in Bundelkhand. Standing crops are in fair to good condition. Damage by insects and floods is reported from places in Gwalior and by heavy rain in Bhopal and Baghelkhand. Agricultural stock is in good condition except for cattle disease. The fodder supply is sufficient. Prices are high in Bhopal, slightly fluctuating in Indore and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather is cloudy and showery. Autumn crops have suffered from excessive rain in the northern districts where a break is necessary. Elsewhere the condition of crops is good. Weeding is in progress. Fodder is ample and cattle are doing well. Prices of food grains remained stationary or fluctuated slightly, wheat and juar exhibiting a downward tendency.

Peninsular States.—The rainfall during the week was excessive and a break is wanted. Crops are flourishing.

Bombay.—Good rain fell during the week throughout the Presidency but more rain is still needed in parts of East Deccan and Belgaum. Standing crops are in good condition except for slight damage by rats and grasshoppers in seven talukas of Thar and Parker, by rats in two talukas of Hyderabad, by grasshoppers in two Talants of Kathiawar and by excessive rain in two talukas of Nawabshah and parts of Kaira. The fodder supply is adequate except in two talukas of East Khandesh, two of West Khandesh and four of Ahmednagar. Agricultural stock is sufficient. Cattle is in good condition. Drinking water is adequate. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Dharwar. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly in the Deccan and are generally steady elsewhere.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was good. The average fall was 3 inches 45 cents. The highest fall was 17 inches 24 cents in Serani. Autumn and the early rice crops are generally in fair to good condition and are being weeded. Sowings continue. Lands for spring crops are being prepared and sown. Cattle disease prevails in eight talukas. Prices of grains.—Wheat 6½, coarse rice 6½ and juar 110½ seers per rupee. The highest price of juar in district is 7 seers per rupee in Bidar and the lowest 17 seers per rupee in Raichur.

Mysore.—The rainfall during the week was good in Kadur and Shimoga and light to fair elsewhere. The price of rice has risen in Mysore, Hassan and Chitaldrug and that of ragi has fallen in Tumkur and risen in Chitaldrug. Markets are well supplied. Sowing, transplanting and weeding operations for ragi and paddy are in progress in parts. Standing crops are in good condition. Prospects of the season are generally good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Rainfall 7 inches 94 cents. Transplantation of rice has been completed in parts. Prices of food grains are high. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was very heavy in South Kanara, heavy in Malabar and Cochin, good in the Circars, Kurnool, Chingleput, Madras, Pudukkottai and the Nilgiris and light to fair elsewhere. Standing crops are in fair to good condition generally but rain is required in parts of four districts. Harvesting of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops is proceeding normally with outturn fair to normal generally. Sowings of paddy, sugarcane and dry crops are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. The water-supply is insufficient in parts of Ganjam, Deccan except Kurnool, Nellore, South Arcot, Central except Trichinopoly, Madura and Tinnevely. Pasture is sufficient except in two districts and in parts of another. Fodder is generally available. Prices are steady.

No. 2044-I.B.—In exercise of the powers conferred by Section 13 of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890 (VI of 1890), as applied to Berar, (hereinafter called the Act), the Governor General in Council is pleased to frame the following forms and make the following rules :—

1. It being the wish of the Governor General in Council that Government should not interfere, under the Act, in cases of doubt or dispute and that the jurisdiction of the Courts in such cases should in practice be left unaffected by the Act, the cases with which Government will have to deal may be divided into two classes, namely, (1) cases of trusts, whether already established or proposed to be established, out of which it may be confidently predicted that contention cannot arise, and (2) cases out of which contention may possibly arise, however remote or unlikely the contingency. To the first class will belong such cases as those of Lawrence Asylums, Railway Schools and endowments in Government securities in general aid of the funds of specified dispensaries or schools. To the second class will belong most cases in which private persons apply for a vesting order or a scheme or modification of a scheme and all cases in which it is proposed to depart in any respect from the ascertained wishes or presumable intentions of the founder of an endowment. In cases belonging to the first class, previous publication of proposed vesting orders and of proposed schemes and modifications of schemes will ordinarily be unnecessary: in cases belonging to the second class, there should ordinarily be previous publication of such documents.

2. (1) When Government, having regard to the requirements of rule 1, is of opinion that a proposed vesting order or a proposed scheme or modification of a scheme should not be made or settled without previous publication, it shall publish a draft of the proposed order, scheme or modification, or a proper abstract thereof, signed by one of its Secretaries, for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication should be made in the official Gazette and in such other manner as Government may prescribe.

(3) There shall be published, with the draft or abstract, a notice specifying a date on or after which the proposed order, scheme or modification will be taken into further consideration.

(4) Government shall consider any objection or suggestion which it may receive from any person before such date with respect to the proposed order, scheme or modification.

3. The cost of the previous publication under rule 2 of any proposed order, scheme or modification of a scheme, and any other costs incurred, or to be incurred in the making or settlement of the order or of the scheme or modification, shall be paid by the applicants for the order, scheme or modification, and, if Government so direct may be paid by them out of any money in their possession pertaining to the trust to which their application relates.

4. In the case of property vested in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments (hereinafter called the Treasurer) other than securities for money, the persons, acting in the administration of the trust and having under Section 8, sub-section (3) of the Act the possession, management and control of the property and the application of the income thereof, shall, in books to be kept by them, regularly enter or cause to be entered full and true accounts of all moneys received and paid respectively on account of the trust, and shall, on the demand of Government, submit annually to such public servant as Government may from time to time appoint in this behalf, in such form and at such time as the Government may from time to time prescribe, an abstract of those accounts and such returns as to other matters relating to the administration of the trust as Government may from time to time see fit to require.

5. (1) The following are prescribed as the fees to be paid to Government in respect of any property vested under the Act in the Treasurer :

Fees to be paid to Government in the case of property other than securities for money—

the actual charges incurred by the Treasurer in the discharge of his functions in respect of the property.

(2) The Treasurer may deduct any fees payable to Government on account of any endowment from any money in his hands on account of such endowment. If he holds no such money, the amount should be claimed from the administrators.

6. All copies of vesting orders received by the Treasurer will be filed together and will be numbered in consecutive order of their receipt ; when a sufficient number have been received they will be bound in volumes. A note will be made on each vesting order of any entries in the registers prescribed below relating to the property vesting in the Treasurer under such order.

Record of vesting orders to be maintained by Treasurer.

Accounts of Securities for money.

7. On receipt of any securities for money, or on their purchase by himself, the Treasurer will record their receipt in a register in form No. 1. He will also keep a separate account for each endowment in Form No. II, in which he will record all receipts including any amounts sent for investment, and all disbursements. In the cash account the Treasurer will record only his own transactions (such as the payment of the money to the administrators), not the transactions of the administrators of the Endowment Fund.

Register of securities and ledger account

8. The Treasurer will keep a record in the appropriate columns of Form No. I of all securities returned by him. The return will also be entered in Form No. II, where the amount returned will be deducted from the capital of the endowment concerned.

Account of securities returned.

9. (1) If the securities elsewhere than in Madras and Bombay consist of Government promissory notes, they will be forwarded to the Controller of Currency for Custody under the general rules laid down in the Civil Account Code, but the securities held under the Act must be forwarded separately, and the Treasurer will keep a separate register under those rules for these securities, and will also keep a separate file of the acknowledgments.

(2) The Treasurer will retain in his own custody all securities for money other than Government promissory notes.

10. The Treasurer, on receipt of any interest on securities, will pass it through his General Trust Interest Account under a special sub-head, "Interest on Charitable Endowments under Act VI of 1890." The interest will then be distributed to the various ledger accounts (Form No II) in which the gross amounts must be shown, any deductions for fees, etc., being shown as a charge, and the payment of the balance to the administrators being also shown as a disbursement. The entries, in the ledger of interest received must be taken out and agreed annually with the total amount of interest drawn.

11. The register in Form No. 1 will show all securities vested in the Treasurer as such whether actually held by him or by the Controller of Currency as his agent. In order to prove the balance actually held by the Treasurer in his own hands, a balance sheet in Form No. 3 will be made out annually and agreed with the actual securities in the Treasurer's possession; such agreement will be certified on the balance sheet.

12. The accounts of interest and the annual agreement of balance will be made at the time which the Local Government may direct under Section 9 of the Act for the publication of the list of properties held, and of the abstract of accounts.

Property other than Securities.

13. The Treasurer will enter in a register in Form No. 4 any property other than securities which becomes vested in him, and will record in the same register against the original entry a note of any property of which he is divested.

Publication of lists and abstracts of accounts.

14. The list of properties vested in the Treasurer to be published annually shall be in Form No. 5. Part I will relate to properties other than securities; Part II will relate to securities, and will also contain the abstract of accounts required by the Act to be published. The Treasurer will demand and receive acknowledgments of the correctness of the balance, when published, from the administrators or from any one or more of their body who may have been authorised by the Administrators to give such acknowledgments.

Audit of accounts.

15. The Treasurer's accounts will be audited —

(a) Where there is an outside Audit Section of the Accountant-General's Office—by such section annually.

(b) Where there is no such section, by a Deputy Auditor General at such periods as the Auditor-General may direct.

16. In these rules "Government" shall mean "the Local Government" or, when the Governor-General in Council exercises, under Section 7 of the Act, the powers conferred by Sections 4 and 5 on the Local Government, the Government of India.

NOTE (1).—Where a person or firm mentioned in the List has more than one address in the country, or group of countries under which the name of the person or firm appears, all dealings in that country, or in any country in the group, with such person or firm are prohibited, even in cases where one only of the addresses or one only of the countries is specifically mentioned.

NOTE (2).—Trading is prohibited under the Trading with the Enemy Proclamations of 26th June, and 10th November, 1915, (which were republished as Notifications in this Department Nos. 1221-W. and 861-W., dated respectively the 24th July and 11th December, 1915), with any person or firm of enemy nationality resident or carrying on business in China, Siam, Persia, Morocco, Liberia or Portuguese East Africa. Persons or firms are therefore prohibited from trading with any person or firm of enemy nationality in any of those countries, even though such person or firm is not mentioned by name in the Statutory List.

NOTE (3).—It is not unusual for firms in Holland and the Netherlands East Indies to be registered under names commencing with descriptive terms such as "Handel Maatschappij" (Trading Company) or "Naamlooze Venootschap" (Limited Liability Company). In such cases it has been found more convenient to publish the firm under its proper name followed by the general descriptive term "Handel Maatschappij" or "Naamlooze Venootschap" (N.V.) as in the case of an English company. For instance Handel Maatschappij van den Berg and Company, and Naamlooze Venootschap de Komeet v/h Dumoucheau Keres will be found under "Berg" and "Komeet" respectively, and not under "Handel" or "Naamlooze."

The Secretary of State for War has received the following despatches from General Sir Archibald Murray, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., Commander-in-Chief, Egyptian Expeditionary Force:—

General Headquarters,

Egyptian Expeditionary Force,

1st March 1917.

MY LORD,—

I have the honour to submit a report on the operations of the Force under my command from 1st October, 1916, to 28th February, 1917.

1. During the months of October and November and the first half of December there were no important operations upon my Eastern front, though a successful reconnaissance against the enemy positions at Gebel El Rakwa and Maghara, 65 miles east of Ismailia, was carried out between the 13th and 17th October by a small force of Australian Light Horse, Yeomanry and Camel Corps. This operation not only needed careful preparation, but entailed two night marches over exceedingly difficult sand dune country, the difficulties being increased on the second night by the presence of a thick fog. On the early morning of the 15th the enemy was located holding a strong position on the high precipitous hills of Maghara. The force, attacking in two columns, dislodged the enemy from his advanced position, capturing a few prisoners. At the same time the enemy's camp was repeatedly bombed by our aeroplanes which furnished invaluable assistance throughout the operation. After an engagement lasting two hours the force withdrew unmolested, and reached Bayud on the 17th without the loss of a single camel. The operation was well carried out, and valuable information was obtained regarding the enemy's dispositions and the nature of the country.

With this exception all was quiet on the Eastern front. The unexpected evidence of our mobility given to the enemy by the successful reconnaissance against Mazar, which I recorded in my last despatch, and the losses suffered by the Turks during this affair, had given the enemy sufficient uneasiness to induce him to withdraw altogether from Mazar, and towards the end of October his nearest troops were in the neighbourhood of Ujret El Zol and Masaid, about seven and four miles west of El Arish respectively. The enemy also maintained various small posts in the neighbourhood of Maghara, with small garrisons further south at Hassana and Nekhl. About the same time the railway towards El Arish, which had been making steady and uninterrupted progress, was in the neighbourhood of Bir Salmana, some four miles east of Bir el Abd. The Australian and New Zealand mounted troops, with a force of Yeomanry attached, had advanced from Romani, and were covering the advance and the railway construction east of Salmana with brigades thrown out to their flanks and rear.

2. On the 23rd October, in order to be in closer touch with the civil authority, I moved my General Headquarters from Ismailia to Cairo, and at the same time the new Headquarters of the Eastern Force came into existence at Ismailia under the command of Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Dobell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O. At the same time the headquarters of the Inspector-General of Communications, which had always been in Cairo, were merged in General Headquarters, and on the lapse of his appointment Lieutenant-General Sir E. A. Altham, K.C.B., C.M.G., to my great personal regret, returned to England.

3. The first half of November was mainly occupied in making the necessary arrangements for pressing forward our advance towards El Arish. In the south a small column under Brigadier-General P. C. Palin, C.B., marched on Sinn Bisher and Bir um Gurf, 30 miles south-east of Suez, on the 15th and 16th November, and attacked and drove off some enemy posted in the hills.

During the latter part of the month the cavalry gradually pushed forward in advance of the railway, which by November 26th reached Mazar. Reconnaissances by mounted troops were pushed forward to within 8 miles of El Arish by 17th November, when the enemy's outposts were located at Ujret el Zol; on November 28th a mounted patrol was pushed through to Bir el Masmi, little more than 3 miles south-west of El Arish; and from this time our patrols were constantly in touch with the enemy's position at El Arish-Masaid. Throughout the month the enemy's aircraft showed considerable activity, attacking the rail-head and the bivouacs of our advanced troops with bombs. Little damage, however, was done, and our own aircraft retained complete superiority in the air. The Royal Flying Corps in this month visited Maghdaba, Sheikh Zowaid and Khan Yunis for reconnaissance purposes, and on the 11th November made very successful bomb attacks on Bir Saba and Maghdaba. At Bir Saba special attention was paid to the aerodrome and the railway station, both of which were damaged. Presumably in retaliation for the air raid at Bir Saba one hostile aeroplane dropped bombs on Cairo on the 13th, causing some casualties among the civil population and killing one private; no other damage of a military nature was done. The Royal Flying Corps promptly replied by heavily bombing the enemy's camp at Maghdaba by moonlight on the same night. On the 17th November the enemy's camps at Masaid were heavily bombed by four machines in reply to the appearance of a hostile machine at Suez the same morning.

By the 1st December the railway was east of Mazar. During the first week of December constant patrols were sent out by the cavalry, and the country was thoroughly reconnoitred in the area Mazar-Risan—Bir Lahfan—Bir el Masmi. In the meantime, the enemy maintained his position of El Arish and Masaid, and in order to afford him no inducement to withdraw until such time as I should be ready to strike, mounted patrols were ordered to be as unostentatious as possible.

4. On the 7th December Lieutenant-General Sir P. W. Chetwode, Bt., C.B., D.S.O., assumed command of the Desert Column, shortly afterwards moving his Headquarters from Bir el Abd to Mazar. Since January the force had gradually pushed right across the Sinai desert, fighting when necessary, organising and constructing incessantly in the heavy sand and hot sun. The pressure on the enemy in other theatres and our success at Romani were undoubtedly contributing factors to this advance, but the main factor—without which all liberty of action and any tactical victory would have been nugatory—was work, intense and unremitting. To regain this peninsula, the true frontier of Egypt, hundreds of miles of road and railway had been built, hundreds of miles of water piping had been laid, filters capable of supplying 1,500,000 gallons of water a day, and reservoirs had been installed, and tons of stone transported from distant quarries. Kantara had been transformed from a small canal village into an important railway and water terminus, with wharves and cranes and a railway ferry; and the desert, till then almost destitute of human habitation, showed the successive marks of our advance in the shape of strong positions firmly entrenched and protected by hundreds of miles of barbed wire, of standing camps where troops could shelter in comfortable huts, of tanks and reservoirs, of railway stations and sidings, of aerodromes and of signal stations and wireless installations, by all of which the desert was subdued and made habitable, and adequate lines of communication established between the advancing troops and their ever receding base. Moreover, not only had British troops laboured incessantly through the summer and autumn, but the body of organised native labour had grown. The necessity of combining the protection and maintenance, including the important work of sanitation, of this large force of workers, British and native, with that steady progress on the railway, roads and pipes which was vital to the success of my operations, put the severest strain upon all energies and resources. But the problem of feeding the workers without starving the work was solved by the goodwill and energy of all concerned.

Moreover, organisation kept pace with construction. The equipment of the fighting units with camel transport, which had reached its first stage of completion at the time of the Romani battle, had been perfected by the middle of December, the allotment of camels to units having been worked out with the minutest precision. A large number of additional camels were provided for conveying supplies and water from the rail-head to the front. The striking force was now completely mobile, and the troops had grown skilful in meeting the special problems of desert campaigning.

5. But no organisation could entirely overcome the chief difficulty which had faced us all through the year, the adequate provision of water for the troops. In fact, during this final period this difficulty was accentuated by the rapid advance of troops and railway with which the water supply could not keep pace. Moreover, my troops had passed out of the water-bearing Qatia basin, and had reached a tract in which local water was almost non-existent. From Romani to Bir el Abd the local water, though generally somewhat brackish, had been always employed for the horses, mules and camels, and it had been found that, if the necessary precautions were taken, it had no ill-effect upon our troops at all events for a limited period. East of Bir el Abd the situation is altogether different. Water is found in comparatively few and widely separated localities. Such as exists is generally too brackish for human consumption, and the wells east of the water line are so widely separated and are of so small capacity that it is a matter of great difficulty—sometimes a complete impossibility—to water any large number of animals. This latter fact greatly restricted the employment of mounted troops. During the first half of November, also, the pipe-line was not yet delivering water at Romani, and the water for the advanced troops had therefore to be brought up by rail in tank trucks and stored in improvised tanks at railway sidings made for that purpose. Since the railway had reached kilo. 109, considerable strain was thrown on its resources for this period owing to the necessity for maintaining the rate of construction, for forwarding material for the construction of the pipe-line, for supplying the troops, and for undertaking the long haulage of great quantities of water in addition. By the 17th November, however, the water situation was somewhat relieved by the delivery of water through the pipe-line at Romani. Thereafter the water difficulty again increased as the railway advanced, until the pipe-line delivered water at Bir el Abd, thereby again reducing the distance over which rail-borne water had to be carried. But, as the month advanced, the water question presented itself more insistently than ever. Every tactical preparation for the offensive had been made, naval co-operation planned, and arrangements made for the landing of stores and construction of piers as soon as El Arish was in my possession. But the difficulty of water supply, even with my advanced rail-head, was immense. The enemy was so disposed as to cover all the available water in the neighbourhood of El Arish and Masaid. Between his position and ours, and south of his position, no water could be found; nor had search in the Wadi-el-Arish, south of the town, by parties sent in by night, proved more successful. The enemy was disposed in depth covering all the water in the area—there being about four miles between his outpost line and his third line of defence. If, therefore, he should be able to force us to spend two days in the operations of driving him from his position, it would be necessary to carry forward very large quantities of water on camels for the men and animals of the formations engaged. This entailed the establishment of a very large reserve of water at rail-head, and the preparation of elaborate arrangements for the forwarding and distribution of water.

The Turkish garrison at El Arish consisted of some 1,600 infantry in all, in a strong entrenched position. Between the 9th and 14th December increased activity was shown by the Turks, and our aircraft and mounted patrols reported the construction of new works, while the enemy camps at Maghdaba and Abu Aweigila were reported to have increased in size. On these indications of a probable reinforcement to the enemy, the final preparations were pushed on with most strenuous determination. Had rain only fallen, an earlier move could have been made, but as it was, the water supply for the striking force was not adequately secured till 20th December.

6. The swiftness of our final preparations was rewarded, but not immediately, by a successful engagement. We had been too quick for the enemy, but he had recognised it, and knowing that reinforcements would arrive too late, had hurriedly withdrawn his troops from Masaid and El Arish. This retirement was reported by the Royal Flying Corps on the 20th December, and the Australian and New Zealand mounted troops and Imperial Camel Corps were ordered to move on El Arish the same night. Scottish troops were to move in support of the mounted troops. Accordingly, after a skilfully conducted march of twenty miles in the moonless night, the Australian Light Horse and the Imperial Camel Corps surrounded the enemy's position. Light Horse patrols reached El Arish about sunrise, and found it unoccupied. By 7-20 A.M. the Light Horse were east of El Arish, the Imperial Camel Corps south of the town, another party of light Horse was about Masaid, and the New Zealand Mounted Rifles were at Masmi. During the day our aircraft reported about 1,600 of the enemy on the march in two columns in the neighbourhood of Maghdaba and Abu Aweigila. Sheikh Zowaid and Rafa appeared to be clear of the enemy. Maghara had been evacuated, and the enemy was apparently in process of withdrawing from the neighbouring posts. By the night of the 21st December, therefore, the re-occupation of El Arish had been effected, and the enemy was evacuating, or had evacuated, his positions west of north and south line through that place, except those at Nekhl and Hassana. The aircraft, moreover, reported that the garrison of the latter place seemed also to be reduced.

On the 22nd December the Scottish troops were about El Arish and Bittia. Mine-sweeping operations were at once commenced in the roadstead under the direction of Captain A. H. Williamson, M.V.O., R.N., while the erection of a pier was taken in hand. In forty-eight hours the roadstead was cleared of mines, and the supply ships from Port Said began unloading stores and supplies on the 24th. Supplies were also hastened to El Arish by camel convoy, since it was of the utmost importance to accumulate at once a sufficient amount to give our mounted troops a further radius of action. Our aircraft were exceedingly active during the day. A successful attack was made on the railway bridge at Tel-el-Sharia, north of El Arish, El Auja and Bir Saba were effectively bombed, and two battalions of Turkish troops located by the Royal Flying Corps at Maghdaba, some 20 miles south of El Arish, were attacked with bombs by thirteen of our aeroplanes and suffered many casualties.

In order to emphasise the capture of El Arish, in the Southern Canal area a column assembled near Bir Mabeinuk on the 22nd December, and on the following days advanced through the Mitla Pass and by the Darb el Haj as far as Sudr El Heitan, more than half-way to Nekhl. This column destroyed various enemy posts and entrenchments, but, finding no enemy, returned on the 25th.

7. The enemy having temporarily succeeded in eluding us, it was of the utmost importance to strike any of his forces that remained within our reach. I had always anticipated that, should the enemy choose to abandon El Arish, his line of retreat would be through Maghdaba and Abu Aweigila towards El Auja. These anticipations were confirmed by the report of the Royal Flying Corps that an enemy force of about two regiments was at Maghdaba. It appeared likely that this force consisted of the 1,600 infantry which had composed the garrison of El Arish, and that it was preparing to hold Maghdaba as a rearguard. Orders were given that a mounted force should push forward with all haste against the enemy, and arrangements were made accordingly by General Sir Charles Dobell for the move of most of the Australian and New Zealand mounted troops, with the Imperial Camel Corps, against Maghdaba and Abu Aweigila on the night of the 22nd-23rd. Major-General Sir H. G. Chauvel, K.C.M.G., C.B., was in command of the column.

8. Starting at 12.45 A.M. on December 23rd, the flying column halted at 4.50 A.M. in an open plain about four miles from Maghdaba, whence the enemy's bivouac fires could plainly be seen. General Chauvel, with his staff and subordinate commanders, immediately undertook a personal reconnaissance of the enemy's position, and soon after 8 A.M. by which time the first aeroplane reports had been received, the attack was set in motion.

The enemy had taken up a position on both banks of the Wadi el Arish, and was very strongly posted in a rough circle of from 3,000 to 3,500 yards diameter. Five large closed works, exceedingly well sited, formed the principal defences, and between these works was a system of well constructed and concealed trenches and rifle pits.

General Chauvel's plan of attack was as follows :—

The New Zealand Mounted Rifles and Australian Light Horse, both under the command of Brigadier-General E. W. C. Chaytor, C.B., were to move to the east of Maghdaba and to swing round to attack the enemy's right and rear. The Imperial Camel Corps were to move direct against Maghdaba to attack the enemy in front—that is, from the north-west. Other Australian mounted troops were at the outset in reserve. Between 8.45 A.M. and 9.30 A.M. the attack developed, and at the latter hour General Chaytor moved a Light Horse Regiment and part of a Machine Gun Squadron on a wide turning movement round the rear of the enemy's position with orders to come in from the south. A little later two regiments of the New Zealand Mounted Rifles were despatched in more or less the same direction, though making a less wide detour, with orders to move on Maghdaba from the east. In the meantime the Imperial Camel Corps were making progress, though somewhat slowly.

At 10 A.M. the aircraft reports indicated the possibility that the enemy might try to escape. Thereupon General Chauvel ordered the mounted troops in reserve, less one regiment, to push in from the north-west. The troops moved forward at a trot, and, coming under shrapnel fire, increased the pace to a gallop. The enemy then opened a very heavy rifle and machine gun fire, whereupon the force swung to its right and gained cover in the Wadi where, dismounting, it began an attack against the left of the enemy position.

Between noon and 1.30 P.M. the enemy's position was practically surrounded, but for some little time it had been found increasingly difficult to make progress. The horse artillery batteries had been greatly hindered by the mirage and the difficulty of getting forward observation, the ground round the enemy's position being absolutely flat and devoid of cover.

In the meantime reports were received from the Field Squadron that no water could be found. Unless Maghdaba could be taken during the day, therefore, it was probable that our troops would have to withdraw, as none of the horses had been watered since the evening of the 22nd, and the nearest water, except that in the enemy's position, was at El Arish. General Chauvel reported the situation to the Desert Column accordingly, and received orders to maintain the attack.

But before this communication arrived the situation had begun to improve. Some Australian mounted troops, pressing on against the enemy's left, captured a work on the west of the Wadi, taking about 100 prisoners. At 2 P.M., two regiments of the Australian Light Horse coming in from the north-east, were within 200 yards of the position, in close touch with the Imperial Camel Corps advancing from the north-west. A quarter of an hour later the attack of a third regiment of this force was pressing heavily on the enemy from the south. By three o'clock the New Zealand Mounted Rifles were within 600 yards of the enemy's trenches on the east.

From this time forward the pressure on the enemy increased from all sides. Before half-past three the force from the Wadi and the Imperial Camel Corps attacked the second line of the enemy's trenches, and at four o'clock the former carried one of the main redoubts taking 130 prisoners, including the Turkish Commander. Immediately after this, part of a Light Horse Regiment charged in from the south, mounted and with fixed bayonets, and by half-past four all organised resistance was over, and the enemy was surrendering everywhere.

The total number of prisoners taken in this fine action was 1,282, including some 50 wounded. A large number of the enemy were buried by our troops on the position. Four mountain guns, one machine gun and 1,052 rifles were captured, and 200 more rifles were destroyed.

Our own casualties were 12 officers and 134 other ranks killed and wounded. It was possible to give every attention to our wounded before moving them back to El Arish, owing to the fact that the enemy had a permanent and well-equipped hospital at Maghdaba, to which they were taken as soon as the action was over.

The troops marched back to El Arish during the night of December 23rd-24th.

9. On 27th December the Royal Flying Corps reported that an entrenched position was being prepared by the enemy at Magruntein, near Rafa. Work on this position was continued during the following day, and it was occupied by a garrison equivalent to about two battalions with mountain guns. It was not at the moment possible for me, owing to difficulties of supply, to push on and occupy Rafa permanently. Since, however, the enemy had again placed a small detached garrison within striking distance of my mounted troops, I determined, if possible, to repeat the success at Maghdaba by surrounding and capturing the Magruntein position also. On 7th January I communicated this decision to General Dobell, who entrusted the operation to Lieutenant-General Sir Philip Chetwode, Bt., C.B. D.S.O., commanding the Desert Column, who set out from El Arish on the evening of the 8th-9th with a force consisting of Yeomanry, Australian and New Zealand mounted troops and the Imperial Camel Corps, with a battery of artillery attached.

So efficiently and swiftly was the approach march carried out that the enemy was completely surprised, and by dawn on 9th January his position was almost entirely surrounded before he became aware of the presence of any large forces in his vicinity. The position, however, was a formidable one. It consisted of three strong series of works connected by trenches, one series facing west, one facing south-west, and one facing south and south-east. The whole was dominated by a central keep or redoubt, some 2,000 yards south-west of Rafa. Moreover, the ground in front of these works was entirely open and devoid of cover, and in their immediate neighbourhood was almost a glacis.

The guns, with which aeroplanes were co-operating, started to register at 7-20 A.M. The main attack, to be carried out by Major-General Sir H. G. Chauvel, K.C.M.G., C.B., General Officer Commanding, Australian and New Zealand Mounted Troops, was timed for 10 A.M., with the New Zealand Mounted Rifles on the right, attacking from the east, some Australian Light Horse on their left, attacking from the east and south-east, while the Imperial Camel Corps attacked the works in their front from the south-east. A body of Australian Light Horse were in reserve and the Yeomanry in column reserve. Shortly after 10 A.M., parties of Turks, who were attempting to leave Rafa by the Khan Yunus road, were met and captured by the New Zealand Mounted Rifles, who galloped the Police barracks and Machine Gun post, capturing six Germans (including one officer), two Turkish officers, and 163 other ranks.

Before 11 A.M., Rafa was occupied, and two regiments of the troops in reserve were advanced against the works on the left of the troops attacking from the east and south-east. Some Australian Light Horse and the Camel Corps were ordered to press their attack on the works facing south-west, and about the same time the remainder of the New Zealand Mounted Rifles, with a body of Light Horse, galloped an open space south of the Police post, and established themselves 300 yards east of the nearest enemy work. The Yeomanry were also ordered to deploy against the western works and to attack in conjunction with the Camel Corps. The encircling movement was now practically complete, save for a gap in the north-west between the New Zealand Brigade and the Yeomanry.

At 12-20 P.M. one of the Horse Artillery batteries moved forward some 1,500 yards to support the attack of the Yeomanry. By 1 o'clock our troops were within 600 yards of the southern and western trenches, which were being shelled with good effect by our artillery. By 2 P.M. the right of the New Zealand Mounted Rifles had linked up with the left of the Yeomanry, and was pressing its attack on the rear of one of the enemy's works. General Chetwode now issued orders for a concerted attack on the "Redoubt," or central keep, by the New Zealand Mounted Rifles, and all other available troops of the Australian and New Zealand mounted force, to commence at 3-30 P.M. The Yeomanry was ordered to co-operate against the rear of the work. By 3-15 P.M. two of the enemy's works had been captured and further prisoners had been taken.

While the attack on the central redoubt was developing, information was received, both from patrols and from the Royal Flying Corps, that an enemy relieving force was marching from Shellal on Rafa. This force was attacked frequently with bombs and the machine gun fire by our aeroplanes with success. General Chetwode did not allow this threat, which complicated his situation, to affect the execution of his purpose. He at once gave orders for the attack to be pressed with vigour. The troops, admirably supported by the artillery, advanced with great gallantry, and at 4-45 P.M. the New Zealand Mounted Rifles captured the redoubt with brilliant dash, covering the last 800 yards in two rushes; supported by machine gun fire. By this achievement they were able to take the lower lying works in reverse, and these soon fell to the Camel Corps, the Yeomanry, and the Australian Light Horse. By 5-30 P.M. all organised resistance was over, and the enemy's position with all its garrison was captured, while a detachment of the Australian Light Horse, which had come in contact with the force marching from Shellal, drove off the enemy without difficulty. Our troops now withdrew, taking with them all prisoners, animals and material captured, one regiment and a light car patrol, which were left to clear the battlefield, withdrew unmolested on the following day.

In this fine action, which lasted for ten hours, the entire enemy force, with its commander, was accounted for. More than 1,600 unwounded prisoners were taken, including one German officer and five German non-commissioned officers. In addition, six machine guns, four mountain guns, and a number of camels and mules were captured. Our casualties were comparatively light, amounting to 487 in all, of which 71 were killed, 415 wounded, and one was missing.

10. The result of these successful operations was that the province of Sinai, which for two years had been partially occupied by the Turks, was freed of all formed bodies of Turkish troops. The destruction of his rearguard at Maghdaba compelled the enemy to withdraw from Maghara, Hassana and Nekhl, all of which were clear by the 31st December, and the victory at Magruntein had driven him over the frontier at Rafa, which he did not attempt to reoccupy. For this achievement I am greatly indebted to Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Dobell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and his staff for their unremitting efforts during the whole period to make our advance, as it was, rapid and decisive. To them are mainly due the excellent organisation and dispositions which ensured success without delay, and, above all, the perfection of arrangements for maintaining the troops in a waterless district far ahead of the railway, without which the dash and endurance of our troops would have been of no avail. The foresight, rapid decision and excellent arrangements of General Sir C. Chetwode and the Staff of the Desert Column, the skilful leadership of General Chauvel, the cheerful endurance by the troops concerned of the fatigue and hardships entailed by the Maghdaba operations, and their gallantry and dash at Magruntein, are also worthy of the highest praise. During the actions the work of the Royal Flying Corps in co-operation with the mounted troops was admirable. Not only were the enemy harassed with bombs and machine gun fire throughout, but the aircraft reconnaissance was as reliable as it was untiring. General Chauvel and General Chetwode were kept constantly and accurately informed both of the enemy's movements and of the progress of their own widely dispersed troops, and the co-operation of the aircraft with the artillery was excellent. During the engagement at Magruntein the Royal Flying Corps, besides attacking the entrenched enemy and his relieving column, made a very successful raid on Bir Saba.

11. As a result of the action near Rafa the enemy immediately began to concentrate his forces near Shellal, west of which place he began rapidly to prepare a strong defensive position near Weli Sheikh Nuran, with the object of covering his lines of communication and supply along the railway running into Bir Saba from the north, and along the Jerusalem—Hebron—Bir Saba road. The preparation of this position has continued up to the present date. During the earlier portion of January considerable activity was shown by the enemy's aircraft, both in reconnaissances and small bombing raids. On the other hand, the effect of our recent success on his moral was proved by the very marked increase in the number of deserters who came into our lines.

In the meantime arrangements had been progressing with a view to the concentration of additional troops towards El Arish.

In general, the period following the action at Magruntein was, on my eastern front, devoted to preparations for a further advance. Invaluable work was done during this period by the Royal Navy in transporting and landing supplies from the sea at El Arish. The coast is exceptionally unfavourable for operations of this kind, owing to strong currents, a shelving and shifting beach and heavy surf. Nevertheless, owing to the whole-hearted co-operation of Vice-Admiral Sir R. E. Wemyss, K.C.B., C.M.G., M.V.O., and those under him, a large amount of stores and supplies was landed. Before the end of the month the railway station at El Arish was completed.

12. During the month of February, on the eastern front, the railway, in spite of many difficulties, owing to the heavy sand, was gradually pushed out along the coast. The period generally was devoted to the perfection of the El Arish position, and to energetic training of the troops. Our cavalry patrols kept the country up to and beyond Rafa continuously under observation, and steps were taken to bring in the local Bedouins.

On 23rd February information having been received that Khan Yunus had been evacuated, a reconnaissance was carried out against that place by the New Zealand Mounted Rifles. The column, arriving at dawn, found the position strongly held, and, after manoeuvring the enemy out of his front line of defence and capturing prisoners, withdrew without difficulty. Continuous pressure maintained by our troops in this neighbourhood, however, induced the enemy to withdraw the garrison of Khan Yunus, which was entered by our cavalry without opposition on 28th February.

During the month also a successful minor operation was carried out in the interior of the Sinai Peninsula. Information having been received that the enemy had re-established small posts at Hassana and Nekhl, with the object of regaining his prestige in the eyes of the Bedouins, I ordered a combined operation against those two places to be undertaken by three mobile columns of cavalry and camelry, one column starting from El Arish against Hassana and two starting from Serapeum and Suez respectively, against Nekhl. The advance was so timed that all the columns should arrive at their destinations at dawn on 18th February.

The column from El Arish surrounded Hassana by daybreak on the 18th. The garrison of three officers and nineteen other ranks at once surrendered without resistance. The town was searched, and a few camels, twenty-one rifles and 2,400 rounds of small arms ammunition were found.

The northernmost of the Nekhl columns, leaving Zogha (some twenty-three miles east of the Great Bitter Lake), which was its point of concentration, marched through the Baha Pass to Themada, twenty-five miles north-west of Nekhl, where it arrived on the 16th. On the following day a patrol sent forward towards the Nekhl-Hassana road was fired on from the hills, and in the afternoon it was further reported that the road was clear and that men could be seen leaving Nekhl in an easterly direction. The advanced patrol captured four of the enemy and ten camels, but was prevented from crossing the plain east of Nekhl by rifle fire from about fifty of the enemy who had temporarily halted in the foothills on the Nekhl-Akaba road. Nekhl was entered that evening by a squadron of the Australian Light Horse, who captured two Bedonins and one Turk, the town being otherwise empty. Further pursuit of the enemy was impossible owing to darkness, and the remnants of the garrison were able to make good their escape eastwards along the waterless road towards Akaba. The main body entered Nekhl at dawn on the 18th, and the Southern Column from Suez reached the town at 9 A.M. The latter column, which included detachments of Indian infantry, had marched from Abu Tif (20 miles south-east of Suez) through the difficult Bir Abu Garad Pass to Ain Sudr, and thence to Nekhl. The total captures at Nekhl were eleven prisoners, one field gun, a number of rifles, 16,000 rounds of small arms ammunition, 250 rounds of gun ammunition, and a quantity of stores and explosives. These well-executed and carefully organised operations gave one more proof to the enemy of the mobility of our mounted troops, and of their power to strike over considerable stretches of waterless desert. The excellent arrangements for the Nekhl operation reflect great credit on Brigadier-General P. C. Palin, C.B., and his staff.

13. During most of the period under review the Western Front has been quiet. My advance to the Baharia and Dakhla Oases was accomplished without opposition, and the subsequent task on that front was that of policing its large area and guarding against the possibility of further raids on the part of the Senussi.

On 4th October Major-General W. A. Watson, C.B., C.I.E., took over the command of the Western Force. By this date a column had already been concentrated at Shusha, three miles west of Samalut, for the purpose of conducting operations in the Baharia Oasis. A few days later, however, reliable intelligence was received to the effect that Sayed Ahmed, who had already left the Dakhla Oasis for Baharia, had left Baharia for Siwa on 9th October, the majority of his force preceding him, the rearguard following on the next day. It is probable that the news of my impending advance and the sickness and lack of food in the oasis, which impaired the moral of his troops, were deciding factors in determining his retreat. An immediate endeavour to intercept the enemy's rearguard was made by concentrating all available light armed cars west of Baharia, but the distance to be covered and the sandy nature of the country prevented the success of the attempt. Small mobile columns were at once pushed into the oases of Baharia (110 miles west of Samalut) and Dakhla (75 miles west of Kharga), and all the enemy who had not accompanied the retreat, some 300 in number, were captured with little resistance. The Harra wells on the edge of the Baharia Oasis were captured by a detachment of the Imperial Camel Corps on the 17th, and on the 19th a detachment of the same corps entered the oasis and took possession of the villages of Harra, Mendisha, Bawitti, and Kasr. This oasis was soon completely in our possession, and the Baharia railway commenced receiving traffic. A Light Car Patrol and a detachment of Imperial Camel Corps, starting from Kharga, covered 70 miles of desert and occupied Tenida, in the Dakhla Oasis, by the 17th. The light cars pushed on to Budkulu, capturing a tabur of 45 men and ten camels, and on the 19th the Camel Corps detachment reached Bir Sheikh Mohammed, five miles west of Kasr Dakhla, and captured 40 more prisoners. From the 20th to the 22nd a thorough "drive" was made of the oasis, with a systematic search of the villages, which resulted in the capture of 50 more of the enemy, besides many political prisoners. By the end of the month the oasis was entirely clear of the enemy.

During the following month permanent garrisons were established in these two oases. The Baharia garrison marched out on 6th November and encamped on the escarpment at Legalit Gate, where a very healthy site has been found. The inhabitants, who were undoubtedly glad to be rid of the Senussi, all turned out to welcome the troops, and so far throughout the oasis the latter have always been well received. General Watson himself visited the oasis on 16th November and held a durbar on the 17th at Bawitti, which was attended by the Omdas, Sheikhs and principal inhabitants. The Union Jack was hoisted in the presence of a guard of honour. On 15th November a patrol left Legalit to reconnoitre the Farafra Oasis. The town of Farafra was entered on the 19th. All Senussi followers were separated from the inhabitants, and a search made for arms, with the result that 18 Senussi prisoners and 12 rifles were taken. The patrol left Farafra on the 20th.

During December General Watson visited Dakhla and held durbar on the 19th. The task of re-instituting civil administration in both the Baharia and Dakhla Oases has now been taken over by the civil authorities, to the gratification of the inhabitants, and trade is being encouraged as much as possible.

In the other sections of the western front the work done by the light and armoured cars, owing to the dash and enterprise of their officers, has been uniformly excellent. They are the terror of all the ill-disposed in the Western Desert, and to them, as much as to any, is due the satisfactory state of things which exists throughout from the coast down to the Fayum. The geographical information obtained by these patrols is also invaluable.

14. During October, under the direction of the Italian authorities, a combined British and Italian naval reconnaissance was carried out at Ageila, thirty-two miles west of Tobruk, where a large camp of followers of Idris and Nuri, with guns and a quantity of ammunition, was reported. The camp was shelled, serious casualties being inflicted. On 27th October a light armoured car patrol, accompanied by Lieutenant Tescione, of the Italian Army, reconnoitred an enemy camp at Zowia Jansur, the Muhafzia holding the camp being driven off into the sand dunes by machine gun fire. During November and December much valuable information of the desert routes in the Coastal Section was obtained by patrols. In the Moghara Section several attempts were made by the light car patrols to find a practicable route to the El Qara Oasis, but the boggy ground and high sand dunes on each occasion defeated the attempt. Towards the end of November an interesting and useful reconnaissance was made from Aswan through the Kurkur Oasis to Beris, on the southernmost end of the Kharga Oasis. The total distance covered was 336 miles.

15. During the month of January I received intelligence that Sayed Ahmed, the Grand Senussi, with his Commander-in-Chief, Mohammed Saleh, whose force amounted to some 1,200 men, were making preparations to depart from the Siwa Oasis and to retire to Jaghbub. With the intention of capturing Sayed Ahmed if possible, and of inflicting as much loss as possible on his followers I gave orders on the 21st January that operations were to be undertaken against the Siwa and Girba Oases at the earliest possible moment by a mixed force, to consist of Imperial Camel Companies and armoured cars. Preparations for the march of such a force, however, over the 200 miles of waterless desert between Mersa Matruh, and Siwa would have taken at least one month, and the expenditure of so much time was put out of the question by a reliable report received, towards the end of the month that Sayed Ahmed and his followers were on the point of leaving Siwa. I therefore ordered an immediate reconnaissance of the Siwa and Girba Oases to be undertaken by a column consisting entirely of armoured motor cars, and supplied by motor transport based on Mersa Matruh, with the object of verifying the above report, and of inflicting as much loss as possible on such part of the enemy forces as might be met with. Command of this column was entrusted to Brigadier-General H. W. Hodgson, C.V.O., C.B., whose plan was to attack the enemy camp at Girba with his main body, and to detach two armoured motor batteries to block the pass at Garat-el-Munasib—the only pass between Siwa and Jaghbub practicable for camels—so that should Sayed Ahmed, as was probable, take to flight, casualties might be inflicted on his retreating column by the detached batteries, and his march be deflected into the waterless sand dunes.

16. The fighting force of three light armoured batteries and three light car patrols was concentrated at Mersa Matruh by the evening of the 29th January. Owing, however, to a severe sandstorm, some of the heavy lorries of the heavy supply column did not arrive there from Dabaa till the 31st. The light supply column moved out from Mersa Matruh on the same day, and the fighting force moved out early the following morning. The column, having halted for the night on the road, moved to the point of concentration halfway between Gabel Lamiaz and Neqb el Shogga Pass, 125 miles from Matruh. This long march over the desert track was carried out in good time, and all units reached the point of concentration on 2nd February. After a reconnaissance towards the Siwa Oasis, orders were given for an advance on Girba—at the western end of the Siwa Oasis—on the following day, and for the move of the detachment allotted to block the Munasib Pass.

By 9 A.M. on 3rd February all units had successfully descended the pass north-east of Girba and moved off to the attack, the advanced guard being divided into three parties of two armoured cars each, one of which was to attack each of the three enemy camps already located. The enemy was located in rough ground close under the rocky escarpment, he was completely surprised by the arrival of the armoured cars, and thrown into considerable confusion. Brisk fire was opened on the enemy, who at once took to the cliffs and rocks beyond the camps and returned our fire. The advanced guard was now reinforced, but, owing to the very rough nature of the country, it was impossible for the cars to approach nearer than a distance of 800 yards from the enemy without serious risk of getting stuck. As the action progressed, it became evident that the enemy, who was engaging the armoured cars with two guns and two machine guns, was in considerable force and did not intend to retire without a fight. Information obtained from deserters showed that the strength of the enemy at Girba was 850, while Sayed Ahmed, Mohammed Saleh, and some 400 or 500 men were at Siwa. As afterwards appeared, Mohammed Saleh left to take command at Girba at the beginning of the engagement, while Sayed Ahmed and his force made off to the westward. General Hodgson, who made skilful arrangements for extricating his force, in case of a threat directed by the Siwa party on his left flank and rear, continued the action all day. The light armoured cars, though unable to get closer than 400 yards from the enemy's position, kept the enemy under an accurate fire, inflicting some casualties. Towards evening the enemy's fire died down, though occasional bursts were fired from his machine guns during the night.

At 5 A.M. on the 4th February the enemy fired four final rounds from his guns and several bursts of machine gun fire. Fires were seen beyond his camp, movements of men and animals could be distinguished, and the sounds of small arms ammunition being burnt were heard. By dawn he had completely evacuated his position. The rest of the day was spent in destroying the enemy's camp, reconnoitring towards Siwa and resting the troops, and on the following morning, 5th February, the column entered Siwa without opposition. A parade, at which the local Sheikhs were assembled, was held before the court-house, and a salute of nine guns fired with a Krupp gun that had been brought from Matruh in a motor lorry. Arrangements were then made for the collection of all rifles and for the repair of the passes leading down to the escarpment. The reception given to our troops by the inhabitants of the oasis was friendly, and reports from them confirmed the fact that the enemy had incurred considerable casualties. The column left the town on the same afternoon, and reached the point of concentration on the following day.

Meanwhile, the Munassib detachment, consisting of armoured cars and a light car patrol, had reached its position on the evening of the 3rd February. It was found impossible to get the armoured cars down the steep escarpment, and they were forced to remain at a point 18 miles north of Munassib during the operations. The light car patrol and one car managed to get down the escarpment and take up a position at Munassib. On the 4th this detachment captured a small convoy of mailbags proceeding east to Siwa, and on the 5th it was able to intercept and cut up the leading parties of the enemy retreating from Girba. Subsequently, the enemy established a post out of reach of the cars, and warned all subsequent parties of the enemy to turn into the sand-dunes before reaching the pass. The detachment was therefore ordered to return to the point of concentration, as there was no chance of further successful action. The whole column returned to Matruh on the 8th February, having sustained no casualties to personnel beyond three officers slightly wounded, or to material besides the loss of one tender with broken springs. The enemy's losses were 40 killed, including two Senussi officers, and 200 wounded, including five Turkish officers; 70 rifles were brought in and 150 destroyed; 3,000 rounds of small arms ammunition were brought in and 2,000 destroyed, besides what was burnt by the enemy; 40 of the enemy's camels were killed, and a large number of shelters and tents were burnt.

17. Though the capture of Sayed Ahmed and Mohammed Saleh was wanting to the complete success of the operations, the fighting troops—supported most admirably by the supply column working under extremely arduous conditions—accomplished all that was possible under the circumstances, and great credit is due to General Hodgson and his staff. The expedition which, at my request, was accompanied by Captain Caccia, the Italian Military Attaché, dealt a rude blow to the moral of the Senussi, left the Grand Senussi himself painfully making his way to Jaghbub through the rugged and waterless dunes, and freed my western front from the menace of his forces.

On 14th February No. 2 Light Armoured Car Battery left Sollum to reconnoitre the road to Melfa. During this reconnaissance two enemy caravans were met and destroyed.

18. The outstanding features of the period covered by this despatch have been, on the eastern front the rapid progress of the railways, and on the western front the work of the armoured cars. For the speed at which the railway has been pushed out along the desert to El Arish and beyond, the greatest credit is due to Colonel Sir G. Macauley, K.C.M.G., C.B., Director of Railways, the officers of his staff, and the officers and men of the railway companies. In spite of endless difficulties owing to heavy sand and lack of water, they maintained by their strenuous efforts a rate of advance which was not far behind that of the fighting troops, and were largely instrumental in enabling the latter to keep the enemy under a continual pressure.

I have already referred to the excellent work of the armoured cars and light car patrols on the western front. Their mobility, and the skill and energy with which they are handled, have made them an ideal arm for the western desert, where the sand is not so heavy as on the east. It is not too much to say that the successful clearance of the western oases and the satisfactory state of affairs which now exists on the western front is due more to the dash and enterprise of the armoured car batteries and the light car patrols than to any other cause, and the enemy has found many times to his cost that their range of action is far beyond that of any troops mounted on horses or camels.

The work of the Imperial Camel Corps has been excellent throughout. This corps includes Australian, New Zealand and Imperial units, and the efficiency of the camel companies is largely due to the efforts of the instructional staff at the headquarters of the corps at Abbassia, which has been continuously engaged in their training.

A great deal of the work of supplying the troops on both fronts has been done by the Camel Transport Corps, a unit which has been raised in this country since the commencement of operations, and which has invariably carried out its duties with the utmost efficiency.

The execution of the enormous amount of work necessitated by our advance on the eastern front would have been quite impossible had it not been for the Egyptian Labour Corps, which began to be recruited in this country early in 1916. The officers of this corps have been largely found among gentlemen who are resident in this country and are familiar with the language and customs of the population.

My relations with the High Commissioner, General Sir F. R. Wingate, G.C.B., G.C.V.O., K.C.M.G., D.S.O., have always been most cordial, and I should like to express my gratitude for his ready assistance and valuable advice which has always been at my disposal.

I also wish to express my grateful appreciation of the services of all the officers employed as King's Messengers. The risks involved were not small, as is proved by the fact that one officer was drowned and another, when his ship was torpedoed, was forced to sink his despatches; nevertheless, this duty has always been faithfully and efficiently performed.

I have, in a former despatch, referred to the admirable work of the Red Cross and Order of St. John in this country, under the direction of Sir Courtauld Thomson, C.B. I desire now to express my obligation to those ladies and gentlemen who have given voluntary aid in connection with these institutions, and who have worked with a devotion deserving of the highest praise, in the interests of the sick and wounded. Not only have they earned the gratitude of the individuals they looked after but also they deserve the thanks of their country, as they have materially contributed towards the rapid convalescence and, therefore, to the maintenance of the fighting efficiency of the forces under my command.

The operations which I have had the honour to describe in this despatch, and which have resulted in the freeing of Egyptian territory of all formed bodies of the enemy, could not have been successfully carried out by the forces in the field but for the devotion, energy and skill of the Headquarters Staff and Heads of the Administrative Services.

I have on previous occasions expressed my appreciation of the able manner in which Major-General A. L. Lynden Bell, C.B., C.M.G., Chief of the General Staff, has discharged his duties. I wish again to bring this officer prominently to notice for his admirable work during the period under review.

The abolition of the Inspector-Generalship, Lines of Communication, has thrown upon my Deputy Quartermaster-General, Major-General W. Campbell, C.B., D.S.O., and my Deputy Adjutant-General, Major-General J. Adye, C.B., the whole of the work previously performed by the Inspector-General of Communications, and these duties they have had to discharge in addition to the normal work in connection with an Army in the Field. The Eastward advance has also now lengthened the lines of communication to something like 200 miles. I wish, therefore, specially to acknowledge the excellent work done by these two officers, and I shall have the pleasure of bringing before you the names of a number of officers of the Administrative Services in this connection.

I wish to bring to your notice the excellent manner in which my Assistant Military Secretary, Lieutenant-Colonel S. H. Pollen, C.M.G., has performed the exceptionally heavy work of his department.

A list of those officers, non-commissioned officers and men whom I desire to bring to your special notice in connection with these operations will be forwarded at an early date.

I have the honour to be,

Your Lordship's most obedient servant,

A. J. MURRAY, General,

Commander-in-Chief, Egyptian Expeditionary Force.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS,

REGISTER OF FACTORIES.

3. The Inspector shall keep a Register of factories in Form A attached to these rules, and shall furnish a copy thereof to the District Magistrate and to all the Certifying Surgeons on the 1st February of each year. He shall also intimate to the District Magistrate at the time they are made all changes in the register which are made in accordance with the following rule.

(b) When the Inspector has reason to believe that any premises, situated within the limit of the Ajmer-Merwara district and not already registered as a factory, ought to be included in the Register, he shall send to the occupier of the premises a notice intimating his intention of placing such premises on his register of factories.

(c) Any person served with a notice under clause (b) above may, within 15 days of the receipt of such notice forward to the Inspector a statement setting forth his objections to the registration of his premises as a factory. DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN SELECTED ARTICLES IN JULY, 1917.

The object of the tables appended is to show the quantities of the principal staples of agricultural produce imported from the various provinces, etc., and from foreign countries into the ports of Calcutta, Bombay, and Karachi, and into the Madras ports during the month of July, 1917, and for the four months April to July, 1917, as compared with the corresponding periods of 1916. The statistics include foreign sea-borne and coasting trade as well as inland (rail and river-borne) trade. They have been furnished by Collectors of Customs, Steamer Companies, Railway Audit Officers, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, etc.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN JULY, 1916 AND 1917.

It will be seen from Table I, that the imports by rail, river, and sea in July, 1917, as against the corresponding month of 1916, show (in round numbers) an increase of—

- 171 per cent in gram and pulse
(91,000 tons as against 33,500 tons last year.)
- 165 per cent in raw cotton.
(312,200 bales as against 117,700 bales last year.)
- 118 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).
(323,600 tons as against 148,200 tons last year.)
- 73 per cent in rice (including paddy).
(87,700 tons as against 50,800 tons last year.)

The imports of linseed by rail, river, and sea into ports show a fall of 66 per cent (16,500 tons as against 49,300 tons last year), due mainly to smaller exports from Bihar and Orissa, the United Provinces, the Central Provinces and Berar and the Nizam's Territory. The decrease of 48 per cent (12,373,100 lbs. as against 23,929,600 lbs. last year) in the imports of tea into Calcutta is accounted for by smaller exports from Assam. The imports of rape and mustard seed into the ports show a decrease of 28 per cent (11,600 tons as against 16,200 tons last year) owing to smaller exports from the United Provinces. Arrivals of jute into Calcutta by rail, river and sea show a fall of 7 per cent (130,400 bales as against 139,700 bales last year) due mainly to smaller exports from Bengal.

It will be seen from Table IV (wheat, excluding wheat flour) that the principal source of the imports in July 1916 was the Punjab. During the corresponding month of 1917 also, the Punjab sent by far the largest quantity, namely, 68 per cent of the total.

NOTE.— One bale of cotton or jute is equivalent to 400 lbs.

One maund is equivalent to 82½ lbs.

One maund of paddy is taken as equivalent to 25 seers of rice.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE GAZETTE OF INDIA, SEPTEMBER 22, 1917. 2021

GENERAL RESULTS—FOUR MONTHS' IMPORTS INTO THE PORTS FROM UP COUNTRY, ETC., THIS YEAR AND LAST YEAR.

The four months' figures in table I show (in round numbers) an increase of—

115 per cent in gram and pulse.

(329,400 tons as against 153,500 tons last year.)

72 per cent in raw cotton.

(1,613,600 bales as against 939,100 bales last year.)

21 per cent in wheat (excluding wheat flour).

(1,142,100 tons as against 372,000 tons last year.)

18 per cent in jute.

(603,000 bales as against 509,500 bales last year.)

The imports of linseed by rail, river and sea into ports show a decrease of 59 per cent (79,000 tons as against 191,300 tons last year) mainly on account of smaller exports from the United Provinces and Bihar and Orissa. The fall of 23 per cent (61,800 tons as against 80,300 tons last year) in rape and mustard seed is accounted for by smaller exports into the ports from the United Provinces. The decrease of 15 per cent (297,100 tons as against 350,900 tons last year) in rice (including paddy) is mainly due to smaller shipments from Burma. The imports of tea into Calcutta show a decrease of 12 per cent, (46,391,500 lbs. as against 52,571,400 lbs. last year) on account of smaller exports from Assam.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS IN JULY, 1917 AS COMPARED WITH THE PREVIOUS MONTH.

As compared with June 1917, the imports in July 1917 into the ports referred to above show (in round numbers) a decrease of—

26 per cent in tea

(12,373,100 lbs. as against 16,675,000 lbs. previous month.)

20 per cent in raw cotton

(312,200 bales as against 391,600 bales previous month.)

19 per cent in rape and mustard seed

(11,600 tons as against 14,300 tons previous month.)

(323,600 tons as against 394,700 tons previous month.)

12 per cent in gram and pulse

(91,000 tons as against 103,800 tons previous month.)

and an increase of—

79 per cent in rice

(87,700 tons as against 48,800 tons previous month.)

33 per cent in linseed

(16,500 tons as against 12,400 tons previous month.)

9 per cent in jute

(130,400 bales as against 119,200 bales previous month.)

PART V.

Bills introduced in the Indian Legislative Council, Reports of Select Committees, presented to the Council, and Bills published under Rule 23.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Indian Legislative Council on the 12th September 1917 :—

No. 15 OF 1917.

A Bill to give additional powers to Courts to deal in certain cases with usurious loans of money or grain.

WHEREAS it is expedient to give additional powers to Courts to deal in certain cases with usurious loans of money or grain ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Usurious Loans Act, 1917 .
Short title, extent and commencement.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India.

(3) The Local Government may, by notification in the local official gazette, direct that it shall come into force in the whole or any part of the province from such date as it may specify in its notification.

2. (1) Where, in any proceeding, ex parte or otherwise, for the recovery of a loan whether of money or of grain made after the commencement of this Act, or for the enforcement of any agreement or security made or taken after the commencement of this Act, in respect of any such loan made either before or after the commencement of this Act, the Court is satisfied by evidence that the return to be made over and above what was actually lent, whether the same is charged or sought to be recovered specifically by way of interest or otherwise, is excessive, and that the transaction was as between the parties thereto substantially unfair, the Court may reopen the transaction and take an account between the parties, and may, notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account or any agreement purporting to close previous dealings and to create a new obligation, reopen any account already taken between them and relieve the debtor of all liability in respect of such excess, and if any such excess has been paid or returned or allowed in account, the Court may order the creditor to repay any sum which the Court considers to be repayable in respect thereof, and may set aside either wholly or in part or revise or alter any security given or agreement made in respect of any such loan, and if the creditor has putted with the security, may order him to indemnify the debtor in such manner and to such extent as the Court may deem just

(2) (a) In this section "excessive" means in excess of that which the Court deems to be reasonable having regard to the risk incurred as it appeared or must be taken to have appeared to the creditor at the date of the loan and to the ordinary rate prevailing in the locality for loans of like character.

(b) In considering whether a return is excessive under this section the Court shall take into account any sums charged or paid for expenses, inquiries, fines, bonuses, premia, renewals or any other charges, and if compound interest is charged, the periods at which it is calculated and the total advantage which the creditor may reasonably be taken to have expected from the transaction.

(c) In considering the question of risk the Court shall take into account the presence or absence of security and the value thereof, if any, the financial condition of the debtor and the result of any previous money transactions of the debtor so far as the same were known or must be taken to have been known to the creditor.

(d) In considering whether a transaction was substantially unfair the Court shall take into account all circumstances materially affecting the relations of the parties at the time of the loan or tending to show that the transaction was unfair, including the necessities or supposed necessities of the debtor at the time of the loan so far as the same were known or must be taken to have been known to the creditor and the rate of interest charged.

(3) On any application relating to the admission or amount of a proof for money lent in any insolvency proceedings, the Court may exercise the like powers as may be exercised under this section when proceedings are taken for the recovery of a money loan.

(4) This section shall apply to any proceeding whatever its form may be, if such proceeding is substantially one for the recovery of a loan of money or grain or for the enforcement of any agreement or security in respect of any such loan.

(5) Nothing in this section shall affect the rights of any bona fide transferee or holder for a value without notice.

(6) Nothing in this section shall be construed as derogating from the existing powers or jurisdiction of any Court.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to prevent the Civil Courts being used for the purpose of enforcing harsh and unconscionable loans carrying interest at usurious rates. This subject has engaged the attention of the Government of India frequently in the past and in 1899 sections 16 and 19 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, were amended so as to enunciate more clearly the principle on which a contract can be avoided on the ground of undue influence.

Those amendments had the effect of conferring on the Courts in India equitable jurisdiction in cases relating to usurious contracts in which the element of undue influence is established, but where undue influence cannot be established the result has been to emphasize the rigidity of section 2 of the Usury Laws Repeal Act (XXVIII of 1955), however exorbitant the demand, and however unconscionable the bargain.

Further there has been a tendency on the part of the Courts to place upon the word "unconscionable" in section 16 of the Indian Contract Act the technical meaning which it has acquired in English equity, and consequently to limit their own powers of interference.

Lastly the particular transaction before the Court is often merely one of a series and unless there is power to go behind it and examine antecedent agreements and attendant circumstances there is little hope of the Courts being able to come to an equitable decision.

The remedy proposed by this Bill is to empower the Courts on the lines of section 1 of the Money Lenders Act, 1900 (63 & 64 Vict. c. 51) to reopen transactions by way of money or grain loans in cases where the Court is satisfied (1) that the interest or other return is excessive and (2) that the transaction is substantially unfair, and after investigation of the circumstances both attendant and antecedent, to revise the transaction between the parties and if necessary to reduce the amount payable to such sum as the Court, having regard to the risk and all the circumstances of the case, may decide to be reasonable. The Local Governments have been consulted and legislation in this direction has commanded almost universal approval. Provision has been made to cover the case of loans of grain as well as of money, as loans in kind are often made on very oppressive terms. As there may be urban or rural areas where the proposed law is deemed unnecessary it has been provided that the Act shall not come into force in any Province or part of a Province except by notification.
